VOL. LXXXII—No. 174 CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y., THURSDAY EVENING, MAY 14, 1953. PRICE FIVE CENTS

Parole Violator Held; $1,100 Is Found in Car

Robert Williamson Also Had $170 on Person and Circular Bar in Rear of Car

Parole officers and local authorities today began probing the background of Robert Williamson, 28, believed to be a New York resident, who was picked up on a parole violation charge with about $1,100 in a car he drove, and more than $170 on his person, the authorities said.

Oliver Tweedy, of the Division of Parole, Poughkeepsie, said that he and Parole Officer William Bulger, of the same office, had received information from the New York city parole office that Williamson was wanted, and was supposed to be in Kingston.

The parole officers and four local patrolmen apprehended Williamson in the yard of a Clifton avenue house where he had been visiting. They brought Williamson and the 1948 Cadillac convertible he had been driving to police headquarters.

Circular Bar

Authorities were amazed when they opened the rear compartment of the car and found a circular bar installed over the spare tire. It contained bottles of liquor and soda, and most of the bottles appeared to be empty.

The $1,100 was found in the glove compartment of the car, police said.

Tweedy said Williamson had spent some time in Greenhaven State Prison.

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren said Officers Earl Schoonmaker, Carl Janasiewicz, Francis Fagan and John Crespino, went to the Clifton avenue house with the parole officers to pick up Williamson.

Goes With Officers

It was indicated that Williamson would not admit to the name when the officers first entered the yard where they found him, but later consented to go with the officers.

Local police were notified yesterday that Williamson was wanted and Officer Crespino was assigned to the hunt in civilian clothes.

Williamson said he lived at a cabin in Port Ewen, authorities said, and it was expected that the sheriff's office would investigate his living quarters this afternoon.

Police said Williamson claims he had borrowed the car from the stepson of a New York state "bowling champ."

President Will Make Radio Report Tuesday

Washington, May 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower disclosed today he will make a radio report to the nation next Tuesday night on the inter-related problems of national security, the budget and expenditures.

The President also told his news conference he probably will go on television a week or so later to report to the country what has happened to date in his administration, the purposes that have guided it, and its accomplishments so far.

The radio address will follow a conference next Tuesday with legislative leaders. This meeting is to consider the same general subject matter as the address that night.

Eisenhower said he expects to take one or two persons along with him this week end on a cruise to Williamsburg, Va., to work on a draft of the speech.

Loose Sewer Cover In Underpass Is Blamed for Crash

A loose manhole cover in the Broadway underpass was the reported cause of a two-car collision in which Mrs. Jennie Short, 59, of 39 VanDeusen street, was reported slightly injured last night.

A police report at 7:10 p. m., said C. Russell Edwards, of 297 Washington avenue, was headed south on Broadway, and was struck in the rear by a car driven by Albert Short, of 39 VanDeusen street, son of the injured woman.

Edwards, the report said, swerved "to go around an open manhole."

Cover Reported Off

A police report at 6:55 p. m., said a manhole cover was reported off in the underpass. Officers Thomas McGrane and Louis Sapp, Jr., were sent to investigate and reported that all manhole covers were on at the time.

The mishap involving Short and Edwards happened at about 6:45 p. m., the police report said.

It was undetermined at first whether anyone was injured in the mishap, but police headquarters was notified at 9:20 p. m., that Mrs. Short had suffered a slight cut on the forehead.

The state public works department indicated last year that lock-type manhole covers would be installed in the underpass, but local officials said this has not been done, to date.

Jury Is Selected In $100,000 Action

Case Arises Through Death of County Man When Car Crashed Store

An action to recover $100,000 damages for the death of Isidore Siegel, Kerhonkson storekeeper, who was fatally injured October 20, 1951, when a car crashed into the front of his store where he stood polishing his glasses, was commenced in Supreme Court Wednesday afternoon when a jury was selected.

In addition to the death claim brought by Celia Siegel, widow, there is also an action for personal injuries and for damages to property. The actions are brought against Robert Robinson, Kerhonkson resident, whose car went out of control on the steep hill leading to Kerhonkson village from Minnewaska, and also the County of Ulster on the theory the highway at that point is dangerous. Philip Korn appears for plaintiff and Cook & Cook for Robinson and County Attorney Frederick Stang and Assistant County Attorney Arthur A. Davis, Jr., for the county.

Two Cases Settled

After selection of the jury court recessed until today and after the call of the day calendar this morning Justice Deckelman recessed the court for a conference.

Actual trial of the matter was expected to get underway later in the day.

An action for goods sold and delivered brought by Fred Beers against Edward J. Simmons and another was settled. Clyde F. Gardner for plaintiff and Schirmer & Carnright for defendants. Also settled was No. 108, Max Rudd, etc., against Letwood Corporation, an action for goods sold and delivered. Lounsberry & Lonstein for plaintiff and Robert V. Stapleton for defendant.

Trenton, N. J., May 14 (AP)—Rep. Charles R. Howell of Pennington today was elected Democratic state chairman.

Will Oppose Solidly Any Administration Plan; 'Too Busy' for Hearings

Washington, May 14 (AP)—Republicans on the House Ways and Means Committee said today they are ready to oppose solidly any Eisenhower administration proposal to extend the excess profits tax on business.

And committee chairman Daniel A. Reed (R-N.Y.) indicated his group will be "too busy" with other things even to hold hearings within the next few months on an upcoming administration tax program.

In the face of those developments House Speaker Martin (R-Mass.) reported at the White House today that President Eisenhower and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey are "very hopeful" the federal budget will be balanced by July 1, 1954.

"They are fighting for it and they expect to be able to achieve it," Martin told newsmen after a breakfast conference with the President and Humphrey.

Martin was accompanied to the White House by Rep. Halleck (Ind.), the House Republican floor leader.

In reply to a question, Martin said there was some "incidental" discussions of the prospect for cutting taxes, but "nothing very specific."

Eisenhower has said repeatedly that a tax cut must be deferred until a balanced budget is in sight.

Martin told reporters he and Halleck "discussed the whole legislative program" with the President.

Altogether the report on the breakfast get-together did little to clarify what some Congressional leaders view as conflicting and confusing statements by cabinet members on tax and budget prospects.

Eisenhower had another chance at the clarification chore in a news conference on tap later.

Humphrey has promised the administration would be ready next week to give Congress its recommendations on tax reductions or increases, along with de-

Wants Private Enterprise To Develop Niagara Power

Washington, May 14 (AP)—Rep. Miller (R.-NY), urging that private enterprise be permitted to redevelop the power potential of the Niagara river, said today no reasons exist for government to do the 400 million dollar project.

Miller, testifying before an unusual joint hearing of the House and Senate Public Works committees in support of his bill that provides for private development of the river, said in prepared testimony:

"We are to decide practically for the first time whether the federal government, in addition to its numerous other activities, is now going into the power business."

Authority to divert increased quantities of Niagara river water for power purposes is contained in a 1950 treaty between the United States and Canada.

Miller said that Canada, already well underway in construction of its half of the redevelopment, will be permitted—under the treaty—to use a portion of the U. S. share of the increased diversion by next October.

"So," he said, "as a result of congressional inaction, power which belongs to the people of the United States * * * will, in October, 1954, be utilized by Canada for the benefit of its citizens and its economy.

Raps Republican Bill

New York, May 14 (AP)—Democratic State Chairman Richard H. Balch called on Gov. Thomas E. Dewey last night to support the Niagara river water power bill introduced in Congress by Sen.

Tornado Toll Reaches 101; Damage High

Waco, Tex., May 14 (AP)—The known death tally mounted frightfully today as searchers dug deep into the tornado ruins that defiled downtown Waco. The long dreaded 100 mark was passed.

Early today the 101st body was freed from the debris.

Meanwhile, city officials studied these grim figures: Damages estimated at 50 million dollars; 196 business and manufacturing buildings destroyed; 1,836 other buildings and homes damaged or destroyed. The report was made last night at a disaster relief committee meeting, the figures were compiled by an army engineers survey team sent here from Dallas.

Other Storm Claims 10

In San Angelo, Tex., where another tornado struck shortly before the Waco storm, the toll stood at 10 dead—making a total of 111 tornado dead in Texas.

The weather remained wet and cold. Two hours of sunshine yesterday were all Waco had seen since the twister smashed the heart of the business district Monday.

C of C Points Out 'Spring Rackets' Now in Full Swing

Suggestions Are Given When Dealing With Strangers From Businesses

It's Spring and the Kingston Chamber of Commerce is receiving the usual rush of inquiries about the guarantees and promises being made by itinerant contractors and salesmen.

A recent service bulletin from the National Better Business Bureau, on file at the Chamber office, has a lot to say about a wide variety of "spring rackets" which most communities experience every year. They conclude with the statement, "The gullibility of householders in doing business with complete strangers seems to be unbelievable."

The National Better Business Bureau and the local chamber offers the following suggestions to the public when solicited for business by strangers, claiming to represent established out-of-town concerns:

Deal only with firms whose dependability and reliability can be established by intelligent inquiry.

Compare price quotations with those of other firms.

Be sure the salesman represents the company he claims to represent.

Check of Firm Address

Be sure that the name and address of the firm is printed on the contract before you sign it.

If oral promises are made, be sure that they are represented in substance in the contract.

Retain a copy of the contract.

Sign a completion certificate only when you are satisfied that the job is completed.

Pay your bill by check or money order made out to the firm. Don't pay cash to a salesman.

Beware of implications that because a loan is insured by a government agency the agency guarantees material and workmanship.

The Chamber office welcomes any inquiries about solicitations of any kind. They would like to know the nature of promises made by salesmen and the names of firms supposedly represented to enable a check to be made of those firms through the National Better Business Bureau, of which the Kingston Chamber of Commerce is a member.

Brickhandlers Vote To Accept Contract

The Brickhandlers Union, 1467, AFL, meeting at the municipal auditorium here Wednesday night voted 257 to 75 to accept a contract with Hudson Valley manufacturers that will bring an average wage increase of 10 cents an hour.

The average wage for brickhandlers will now be $1.76 an hour and for members of Operating Engineers Local Union 825B it will be from 15 to 20 cents an hour higher.

A union spokesman said the increase will be effective for about 1,000 workers in 10 brickyards along the Hudson Valley.

Attendance at last night's meeting, the spokesman said, was cut down by unfavorable weather.

Food Was Too Hot

Washington, May 14 (AP)—There was an odor of smoke in Statuary Hall at the Capitol about 5:30 a. m. EST today. A member of the cleaning force smelled it and called a guard who turned in an alarm. Fourteen pieces of firefighting apparatus arrived before it was all traced back to air vents from the cafeteria where some food got too hot.

Reds Reject Latest Allied Prisoner Plan

Believes Apology Due From Britain For Attlee Attack

Sen. McCarthy Calls Speech 'Cheap' Which Scored President, People of This Nation

Washington, May 14 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said today Britain should apologize for what he termed a "cheap" attack by former Prime Minister Attlee on President Eisenhower and the American people.

Conservative party members of the British Parliament, McCarthy said, sat silently last Tuesday while Attlee made "one of the most insulting speeches ever made in the legislative body of a recipient nation against an ally which has been pouring out her economic life blood for practically every other nation on earth."

In a speech prepared for Senate delivery, McCarthy declared:

"The American people are entitled to an apology for this cheap-uncalled for, fantastic attack upon the President and people of the United States.

Questions Majority

"We are entitled to an explanation as to whether the majority party in Britain agrees with Mr. Attlee, who was rejected by the British people."

One by one McCarthy took up Attlee's reported declarations that "there are elements in the United States that do not want a truce in Korea," that the presence of Eisenhower or any American might "hinder" direct peace talks with the Russians; that "the American Constitution was framed for an isolationist state," and that "the Americans do not wish to have anything to do with Europe."

McCarthy's prepared text contained no mention of Attlee's statement that "one wonders" whether Eisenhower or McCarthy wields the greater power in U. S. foreign policy.

"What shocked me," McCarthy said, "was that no member of the majority party arose to contest what he had said."

Quotes Praise for Reds

"But lest someone think Attlee's Communist salute was merely an act of courtesy on his part, I have here a letter in Attlee's own handwriting. * * * he first praises in glowing terms the Communist brigade and extolls its devotion to the 'cause of freedom and social justice.'

"And listen to this closing paragraph: 'I shall try to tell our comrades at home of what I have seen.' * * *

"'Comrade' is a Communist term meaning fellow Communist."

Several times thereafter the text of McCarthy's speech mentioned Attlee as "Comrade Attlee."

Says Attack Was 'Libel'

McCarthy said that was a "libel" against Eisenhower and "slanders the American people."

"Perhaps Mr. Attlee forgets that the U. S. has suffered 130,000 casualties in Korea, while the British figure is roughly 3,700," the senator said. He went on:

"In connection with his statement that there are elements in the U. S. who do not want a truce in Korea, Comrade Attlee knows full well that this nation which has contributed so much in agony, blood and tears * * * does want peace in Korea and peace throughout the world, but peace with honor—peace without surrender."

It should be, he said, "the kind of peace we could have obtained when Douglas MacArthur was in charge in the Far East, had he not been hamstrung and his hands tied by the Achesons and Attlees of this world."

Dean Acheson, a frequent McCarthy target, was secretary of state when former President Truman relieved Gen. MacArthur of his Far East command in 1950.

County to Operate School

Utica, May 14 (AP)—Oneida county will take over the State Institute of Applied Arts and Sciences here Sept. 1. The board of supervisors voted 41-1 last night to operate the two-year technical school, one of five the state must abandon Aug. 31 unless communities sponsor them. The Utica Institute has about 500 students and a faculty of approximately 42.

Ike Seeks Red's Good Faith Before Meeting

President Says He Has No Objection to Such Meeting Aimed to Promote Peace

Washington, May 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he has no objection to a conference of top leaders of the major powers, but that he would first like to see some evidence of good faith from the Soviet Union.

And as yet, he declared, he has seen no evidence of good faith on the part of the Russians in their talk of wanting world peace.

Eisenhower's news conference remarks were in reply to a request for comment on Prime Minister Winston Churchill's speech earlier this week urging a high level conference without great delay.

Eisenhower also declared:

"I have met no one in the United States who does not want peace."

The President permitted direct quotation of that remark, made in reply to a request for comment on statements by Clement Attlee, former British prime minister.

Attlee said in the House of Commons yesterday that Eisenhower administration's hands were tied in seeking peace in Korea by "elements in the U.S.A. that do not want a settlement."

As for Churchill's call for a conference of the leaders of the major parties, the President noted that the State Department suggested yesterday such a conference should await proof of the Soviet Union's sincerity in talking about peace.

Eisenhower said the department's statement was issued with his approval.

Then he went on to say he has seen no evidence of such faith.

Impatience Indicated

The President recently said he was willing to accept Soviet peace overtures at face value.

His statement today that there has been no evidence of good faith on the part of the Russians seemed to indicate a bit of impatience.

The President said emphatically, however, that he was willing to take almost any kind of a

Moving of Creek Begun on Thruway

New Esopus Channel Will Extend 2,800 Feet West of Barn

A first step toward construction of the Kingston-Whiteport section of the New York State Thruway was in progress today just west of the city where workmen advanced preliminary phases on the relocation of about a half mile of the Esopus creek.

George W. Brewster, of Bogota, N. J., as a sub-contractor for A. E. Ottaviano, of Croton, moved men and machinery to a site near Teetsel's Barn on the Onteora Trail (Route 28) earlier this week and much of the preliminary work is under way.

New, Wider Creek Bed

A new and wider creek bed will be built from a point west of The Barn to a point beyond where the creek bends sharply at the John Walker farm. At points below that, it will be moved further back from Route 28.

Sloping banks of the wider channel will be lined with stone "wherever erosion is anticipated," A. R. Erskine, engineer of the thruway authority, at Poughkeepsie, said today. The new channel will extend about 2,800 feet west of The Barn.

Ottavian's bid for construction of the Kingston-Whiteport section was $7,349,569. Plans are not yet ready, to date for bidding on the Whiteport-Ohioville section, but John Arborio, Inc., of Poughkeepsie, now working on the Sawkill-Kingston section, bid low on the Ohioville-Newburgh section at $10,477,243 last Thursday.

Clearance in Progress

Preliminary clearing of the right-of-way on the Kingston-Whiteport section is now in progress.

Work on the section south of Route 28 to Whiteport includes the building of a traffic interchanges, bridges to span the Esopus creek, two railroads, Route 209 and the Lucas avenue turnpike.

Tear Down Tents Used In Trade

Neither Side Gives Sign of Yielding on Last Barrier to Armistice in Korean War

Panmunjom, May 14 (AP)—The Communists today said no to the latest allied plan for exchanging war prisoners and neither side gave any indication of yielding on that last major barrier to an armistice in Korea.

Nearby, the Reds tore down tents used for exchanging sick and wounded war prisoners, indicating they're through trading. The United Nations center still stands.

At today's truce meeting, the Reds called the allied counter proposal to their eight-point May 7 offer "absolutely unacceptable" and said it "intends to overthrow the basis of negotiations of both sides."

The chief allied negotiator, Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, Jr., answered with charges that the Reds illegally took allied prisoners across the Yalu river into Manchuria and used others for labor troops.

He charged the Reds with reducing warfare to a "new viciousness" by impressing some 50,000 captives into Communist armed forces, rather than releasing them at the front as the Reds have maintained.

Harrison asked:

"What about 'awakened patriots' serving your military forces? What about the personnel sent to 'peace camps' in Manchuria? What about the personnel sent to 'reform camp' in Manchuria?"

There was no elaboration on Harrison's statement, but allied officers have said that many prisoners — American and others— have been taken to "indoctrination" camps in Red China.

Although the Reds called Harrison's charges "utterly groundless and irrelevant * * * unworthy of refutation," he said he had "irrefutable proof" that camps such as these existed.

After the meeting, he told newsmen:

Difference of Opinion

"There still is a complete difference of opinion of the major points."

The allied counter-offer would free 34,000 North Korean prisoners who refuse repatriation and, under certain conditions, would put 14,500 Chinese in temporary custody of a five-nation commission made up of Sweden, Switzerland, India, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

If two months of Red "explanations" fail to sway the Chinese,

Boys Club Offered Varied Program During Past Year

The Kingston Boys Club, currently seeking to raise a goal of $10,000 in its annual fund drive, expanded its program in many directions during the past year.

Nicholas Cosmos, director, reported that a concrete physical education program was instituted during the year.

More variety was added to the craft program, a game room was added with a large selection of quiet type games, and use was made of audio-visual aids for educational and recreational purposes.

Of the physical education program, Cosmos pointed out that a boy's life is based on vigorous play. If this vigorous play program is properly planned and supervised, "then a boy's unexhaustible supply of energy is channeled in the right direction, rather than in the streets where trouble is always lurking," he said.

Teaches Sportsmanship

The physical program is planned to develop muscular coordination, to teach the skills of various athletic activities, and to teach good sportsmanship.

In the craft program, the boys learn to work with their hands, to share and care for tools, and in quiet games the boys enter into a mild form of competition and learn to give and take with those they play with, Cosmos said.

To continue the program to meet the increasing needs of the youth being served, the board of directors has set a $10,000 goal for its drive, which started Monday. William Darling is general chairman of the drive.

Plantings Behind Schedule In One of Wettest Springs

Albany, N. Y., May 14 (AP)—Soaking rains are washing out a sizable share of New York state's oat, barley, vegetable and apple crops.

Oats and barley have been hit hardest, an Associated Press survey showed.

Other plantings are lagging behind schedule in one of the wettest springs in recent years. Fruit farmers complain that the rain has interfered with pollination of their blossoms and washed the anti-pest spray from their trees.

No estimate of the dollar loss was available.

Nor would the State Agriculture Department predict what effect the rains might have on prices. It said reduced demand might accompany curtailment of crops and keep prices down.

On the brighter side, William I. Bair, statistician for the Agriculture Department, said hay and pasture grasses were growing "as fast as lawns."

Bair said the rains had slowed planting in most upstate counties. County agricultural agents chorused agreement.

James Foster on Onondaga county said more than half the normal oat crop had not yet been planted there. He predicted a 15 to 20 per cent decrease from the usual harvest.

R. W. Cramer reported planting of Chautauqua county's customary 17,000-acre oat crop, valued at $350,000, was two to three

Miller, testifying before an unusual joint hearing of the House and Senate Public Works committees in support of his bill that provides for private development of the river, said in prepared testimony:

"We are to decide practically for the first time whether the federal government, in addition to its numerous other activities, is now going into the power business."

Authority to divert increased quantities of Niagara river water for power purposes is contained in a 1950 treaty between the United States and Canada.

Miller said that Canada, already well underway in construction of its half of the redevelopment, will be permitted—under the treaty—to use a portion of the U. S. share of the increased diversion by next October.

"So," he said, "as a result of congressional inaction, power which belongs to the people of the United States * * * will, in October, 1954, be utilized by Canada for the benefit of its citizens and its economy.

Raps Republican Bill

New York, May 14 (AP)—Democratic State Chairman Richard H. Balch called on Gov. Thomas E. Dewey last night to support the Niagara river water power bill introduced in Congress by Sen.

Tornado Toll Reaches 101; Damage High

Waco, Tex., May 14 (AP)—The known death tally mounted frightfully today as searchers dug deep into the tornado ruins that defiled downtown Waco. The long dreaded 100 mark was passed.

Early today the 101st body was freed from the debris.

Meanwhile, city officials studied these grim figures: Damages estimated at 50 million dollars; 196 business and manufacturing buildings destroyed; 1,836 other buildings and homes damaged or destroyed. The report was made last night at a disaster relief committee meeting, the figures were compiled by an army engineers survey team sent here from Dallas.

Other Storm Claims 10

In San Angelo, Tex., where another tornado struck shortly before the Waco storm, the toll stood at 10 dead—making a total of 111 tornado dead in Texas.

The weather remained wet and cold. Two hours of sunshine yesterday were all Waco had seen since the twister smashed the heart of the business district Monday.

C of C Points Out 'Spring Rackets' Now in Full Swing

Suggestions Are Given When Dealing With Strangers From Businesses

It's Spring and the Kingston Chamber of Commerce is receiving the usual rush of inquiries about the guarantees and promises being made by itinerant contractors and salesmen.

A recent service bulletin from the National Better Business Bureau, on file at the Chamber office, has a lot to say about a wide variety of "spring rackets" which most communities experience every year. They conclude with the statement, "The gullibility of householders in doing business with complete strangers seems to be unbelievable."

The National Better Business Bureau and the local chamber offers the following suggestions to the public when solicited for business by strangers, claiming to represent established out-of-town concerns:

Deal only with firms whose dependability and reliability can be established by intelligent inquiry.

Compare price quotations with those of other firms.

Be sure the salesman represents the company he claims to represent.

Check of Firm Address

Be sure that the name and address of the firm is printed on the contract before you sign it.

If oral promises are made, be sure that they are represented in substance in the contract.

Retain a copy of the contract.

Sign a completion certificate only when you are satisfied that the job is completed.

Pay your bill by check or money order made out to the firm. Don't pay cash to a salesman.

Beware of implications that because a loan is insured by a government agency the agency guarantees material and workmanship.

The Chamber office welcomes any inquiries about solicitations of any kind. They would like to know the nature of promises made by salesmen and the names of firms supposedly represented to enable a check to be made of those firms through the National Better Business Bureau, of which the Kingston Chamber of Commerce is a member.

Brickhandlers Vote To Accept Contract

The Brickhandlers Union, 1467, AFL, meeting at the municipal auditorium here Wednesday night voted 257 to 75 to accept a contract with Hudson Valley manufacturers that will bring an average wage increase of 10 cents an hour.

The average wage for brickhandlers will now be $1.76 an hour and for members of Operating Engineers Local Union 825B it will be from 15 to 20 cents an hour higher.

A union spokesman said the increase will be effective for about 1,000 workers in 10 brickyards along the Hudson Valley.

Attendance at last night's meeting, the spokesman said, was cut down by unfavorable weather.

Food Was Too Hot

Washington, May 14 (AP)—There was an odor of smoke in Statuary Hall at the Capitol about 5:30 a. m. EST today. A member of the cleaning force smelled it and called a guard who turned in an alarm. Fourteen pieces of fire-fighting apparatus arrived before it was all traced back to air vents from the cafeteria where some food got too hot.

Reds Reject Latest Allied Prisoner Plan

Believes Apology Due From Britain For Attlee Attack

Sen. McCarthy Calls Speech 'Cheap' Which Scored President, People of This Nation

Washington, May 14 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said today Britain should apologize for what he termed a "cheap" attack by former Prime Minister Attlee on President Eisenhower and the American people.

Conservative party members of the British Parliament, McCarthy said, sat silently last Tuesday while Attlee made "one of the most insulting speeches ever made in the legislative body of a recipient nation against an ally which has been pouring out her economic life blood for practically every other nation on earth."

In a speech prepared for Senate delivery, McCarthy declared:

"The American people are entitled to an apology for this cheap-uncalled for, fantastic attack upon the President and people of the United States.

Questions Majority

"We are entitled to an explanation as to whether the majority party in Britain agrees with Mr. Attlee, who was rejected by the British people."

One by one McCarthy took up Attlee's reported declarations that "there are elements in the United States that do not want a truce in Korea," that the presence of Eisenhower or any American might "hinder" direct peace talks with the Russians; that "the American Constitution was framed for an isolationist state," and that "the Americans do not wish to have anything to do with Europe."

McCarthy's prepared text contained no mention of Attlee's statement that "one wonders" whether Eisenhower or McCarthy wields the greater power in U. S. foreign policy.

"What shocked me," McCarthy said, "was that no member of the majority party arose to contest what he had said."

Quotes Praise for Reds

"But lest someone think Attlee's Communist salute was merely an act of courtesy on his part, I have here a letter in Attlee's own handwriting. * * * he first praises in glowing terms the Communist brigade and extolls its devotion to the 'cause of freedom and social justice.'

"And listen to this closing paragraph: 'I shall try to tell our comrades at home of what I have seen.' * * *

"'Comrade' is a Communist term meaning fellow Communist."

Several times thereafter the text of McCarthy's speech mentioned Attlee as "Comrade Attlee."

Says Attack Was 'Libel'

McCarthy said that was a "libel" against Eisenhower and "slanders the American people."

"Perhaps Mr. Attlee forgets that the U. S. has suffered 130,000 casualties in Korea, while the British figure is roughly 3,700," the senator said. He went on:

"In connection with his statement that there are elements in the U. S. who do not want a truce in Korea, Comrade Attlee knows full well that this nation which has contributed so much in agony, blood and tears * * * does want peace in Korea and peace throughout the world, but peace with honor—peace without surrender."

It should be, he said, "the kind of peace we could have obtained when Douglas MacArthur was in charge in the Far East, had he not been hamstrung and his hands tied by the Achesons and Attlees of this world."

Dean Acheson, a frequent McCarthy target, was secretary of state when former President Truman relieved Gen. MacArthur of his Far East command in 1950.

County to Operate School

Utica, May 14 (AP)—Oneida county will take over the State Institute of Applied Arts and Sciences here Sept. 1. The board of supervisors voted 41-1 last night to operate the two-year technical school, one of five the state must abandon Aug. 31 unless communities sponsor them. The Utica Institute has about 500 students and a faculty of approximately 42.

Freed by Reds

New Esopus Channel Will Extend 2,800 Feet West of Barn

A first step toward construction of the Kingston-Whiteport section of the New York State Thruway was in progress today just west of the city where workmen advanced preliminary phases on the relocation of about a half mile of the Esopus creek.

George W. Brewster, of Bogota, N. J., as a sub-contractor for A. E. Ottaviano, of Croton, moved men and machinery to a site near Teetsel's Barn on the Onteora Trail (Route 28) earlier this week and much of the preliminary work is under way.

New, Wider Creek Bed

A new and wider creek bed will be built from a point west of The Barn to a point beyond where the creek bends sharply at the John Walker farm. At points below that, it will be moved further back from Route 28.

Sloping banks of the wider channel will be lined with stone "wherever erosion is anticipated," A. R. Erskine, engineer of the thruway authority, at Poughkeepsie, said today. The new channel will extend about 2,800 feet west of The Barn.

Ottavian's bid for construction of the Kingston-Whiteport section was $7,349,569. Plans are not yet ready, to date for bidding on the Whiteport-Ohioville section, but John Arborio, Inc., of Poughkeepsie, now working on the Sawkill-Kingston section, bid low on the Ohioville-Newburgh section at $10,477,243 last Thursday.

Clearance in Progress

Preliminary clearing of the right-of-way on the Kingston-Whiteport section is now in progress.

Work on the section south of Route 28 to Whiteport includes the building of a traffic interchanges, bridges to span the Esopus creek, two railroads, Route 209 and the Lucas avenue turnpike.

President Says He Has No Objection to Such Meeting Aimed to Promote Peace

Washington, May 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he has no objection to a conference of top leaders of the major powers, but that he would first like to see some evidence of good faith from the Soviet Union.

And as yet, he declared, he has seen no evidence of good faith on the part of the Russians in their talk of wanting world peace.

Eisenhower's news conference remarks were in reply to a request for comment on Prime Minister Winston Churchill's speech earlier this week urging a high level conference without great delay.

Eisenhower also declared:

"I have met no one in the United States who does not want peace."

The President permitted direct quotation of that remark, made in reply to a request for comment on statements by Clement Attlee, former British prime minister.

Attlee said in the House of Commons yesterday that Eisenhower administration's hands were tied in seeking peace in Korea by "elements in the U.S.A. that do not want a settlement."

As for Churchill's call for a conference of the leaders of the major parties, the President noted that the State Department suggested yesterday such a conference should await proof of the Soviet Union's sincerity in talking about peace.

Eisenhower said the department's statement was issued with his approval.

Then he went on to say he has seen no evidence of such faith.

Impatience Indicated

The President recently said he was willing to accept Soviet peace overtures at face value.

His statement today that there has been no evidence of good faith on the part of the Russians seemed to indicate a bit of impatience.

The President said emphatically, however, that he was willing to take almost any kind of a

Plantings Behind Schedule In One of Wettest Springs

Albany, N. Y., May 14 (AP)—Soaking rains are washing out a sizable share of New York state's oat, barley, vegetable and apple crops.

Oats and barley have been hit hardest, an Associated Press survey showed.

Other plantings are lagging behind schedule in one of the wettest springs in recent years. Fruit farmers complain that the rain has interfered with pollination of their blossoms and washed the anti-pest spray from their trees.

No estimate of the dollar loss was available.

Nor would the State Agriculture Department predict what effect the rains might have on prices. It said reduced demand might accompany curtailment of crops and keep prices down.

On the brighter side, William I. Bair, statistician for the Agriculture Department, said hay and pasture grasses were growing "as fast as lawns."

Bair said the rains had slowed planting in most upstate counties. County agricultural agents chorused agreement.

James Foster on Onondaga county said more than half the normal oat crop had not yet been planted there. He predicted a 15 to 20 per cent decrease from the usual harvest.

R. W. Cramer reported planting of Chautauqua county's customary 17,000-acre oat crop, valued at $350,000, was two to three

Tear Down Tents Used In Trade

Neither Side Gives Sign of Yielding on Last Barrier to Armistice in Korean War

Panmunjom, May 14 (AP)—The Communists today said no to the latest allied plan for exchanging war prisoners and neither side gave any indication of yielding on that last major barrier to an armistice in Korea.

Nearby, the Reds tore down tents used for exchanging sick and wounded war prisoners, indicating they're through trading. The United Nations center still stands.

At today's truce meeting, the Reds called the allied counter proposal to their eight-point May 7 offer "absolutely unacceptable" and said it "intends to overthrow the basis of negotiations of both sides."

The chief allied negotiator, Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, Jr., answered with charges that the Reds illegally took allied prisoners across the Yalu river into Manchuria and used others for labor troops.

He charged the Reds with reducing warfare to a "new viciousness" by impressing some 50,000 captives into Communist armed forces, rather than releasing them at the front as the Reds have maintained.

Harrison asked:

"What about 'awakened patriots' serving your military forces? What about the personnel sent to 'peace camps' in Manchuria? What about the personnel sent to 'reform camp' in Manchuria?"

There was no elaboration on Harrison's statement, but allied officers have said that many prisoners — American and others — have been taken to "indoctrination" camps in Red China.

Although the Reds called Harrison's charges "utterly groundless and irrelevant * * * unworthy of refutation," he said he had "irrefutable proof" that camps such as these existed.

After the meeting, he told newsmen:

Difference of Opinion

"There still is a complete difference of opinion of the major points."

The allied counter-offer would free 34,000 North Korean prisoners who refuse repatriation and, under certain conditions, would put 14,500 Chinese in temporary custody of a five-nation commission made up of Sweden, Switzerland, India, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

If two months of Red "explanations" fail to sway the Chinese,

Boys Club Offered Varied Program During Past Year

The Kingston Boys Club, currently seeking to raise a goal of $10,000 in its annual fund drive, expanded its program in many directions during the past year.

Nicholas Cosmos, director, reported that a concrete physical education program was instituted during the year.

More variety was added to the craft program, a game room was added with a large selection of quiet type games, and use was made of audio-visual aids for educational and recreational purposes.

Of the physical education program, Cosmos pointed out that a boy's life is based on vigorous play. If this vigorous play program is properly planned and supervised, "then a boy's unexhaustible supply of energy is channeled in the right direction, rather than in the streets where trouble is always lurking," he said.

Teaches Sportsmanship

The physical program is planned to develop muscular coordination, to teach the skills of various athletic activities, and to teach good sportsmanship.

In the craft program, the boys learn to work with their hands, to share and care for tools, and in quiet games the boys enter into a mild form of competition and learn to give and take with those they play with, Cosmos said.

To continue the program to meet the increasing needs of the youth being served, the board of directors has set a $10,000 goal for its drive, which started Monday. William Darling is general chairman of the drive.

TV Network Color

New York (AP) — When color television gets under way, it won't be necessary that each station of a network add special equipment to broadcast color as long as the signal is coming to it via network. It merely has to relay the signal as originated by the network key station. This will not hold where a station plans to transmit its own original color program. In that case it will have to install both color cameras and color generating apparatus. In case of the receiver, special color adapters or receivers will be necessary.

Sherlock Holmes Robbed

Milford, Conn. (AP)—Sherlock Holmes, of nearby Bridgeport, gave up and called police. Unlike his famous namesake in Conan Doyle's famous mystery novels, he proved a flop tracking down stolen goods. With professional skill, police quickly recovered his stolen auto.

West Hurley Vols Pass Resolution Extending Rates

At a meeting of the membership of West Hurley Fire Company No. 1, Inc., Tuesday night a resolution was adopted calling for the extension of the lower fire insurance rate now applicable generally within a two-mile limit of a fire station to include the entire area of an approved fire district and also to give farm properties out buildings the benefit of a lower fire insurance rate if located within an approved fire district.

A copy of the resolution will be forwarded to the Superintendent of Insurance at Albany, and a further copy will be sent to Senator Arthur H. Wicks.

For many years a lower fire insurance rate has been permitted on dwellings within an area of two miles from a fire station. Farm barns and outbuildings, even those located within that two mile zone, have generally not received any fire rate preference.

With improvement in fire fighting equipment, better and faster trucks and many fire companies operating water carriers over improved highways which are kept clear of snow in winter, it is felt the two-mile limit should be extended to provide lower rates throughout the entire fire district and that farm buildings could be given a lower rate.

Presented by Saxe

The action by the West Hurley Fire Company was taken when former Sheriff John H. Saxe presented a resolution which was seconded by Under Sheriff Clayton W. Vredenburg, calling for an extension of the lower rate zone beyond the present two-mile limit and for a farm building rate adjustment.

It is the hope of the West Hurley firemen that this initial step, taken Tuesday by their company, will be followed by other fire companies in the area and that through the concerted efforts of the fire companies of the state the proposed changes will be brought before state officials and action taken to grant the relief.

Adopted in Other States

The proposed plan has been adopted in several states already and residents of fire districts feel the revision may come in New York state if it can be brought to the attention of the state officials with sufficient force. The plan is not new to fire district officials or to insurance agents. In the past groups have requested a change in the two-mile limit rate and also inclusion of farm buildings within a fire zone but there has been no concerted action by individual fire companies or groups to call the matter to the attention of the insurance department or the state legislators. It was felt by the West Hurley group that should the matter be brought to the attention of the State Superintendent of Insurance and the state legislators by fire companies all over the state, the proposal would receive attention and action.

Points Out Improvement

The resolution adopted by the West Hurley Fire Company points out the improvement in fire protection in the rural areas through better equipment, better trained personnel in the volunteer fire companies, Mutual Aid and the increase in development of auxiliary water supplies.

Mt. Tremper

Mt. Tremper, May 13—Members of Mt. Tremper Grange witnessed a movie on gardening, farming and the use of lime at their meeting Monday night. The pictures were shown by Louis J. Dushek, agronomist with the Callanan Road Improvement Company. He also conducted a question and answer session, during which he helped several people with their gardening problems.

A molasses cookie contest was also conducted and judged at the Grange meeting. The judges were Mrs. Mabel Riseley and Mrs. Nell Hedges. During the judging, the cookies were identified by numbers only. First prize was awarded to Mrs. Helen Umhey and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Marian Umhey was awarded the second prize.

During the business part of the Grange meeting, a motion was made and passed that the Order write letters on behalf of the property owners along the Little Beaverkill Creek whose land is gradually washing into the creek due to erosion. A committee, including Frank Carle, Marian Umhey and Carlton Hoyt, was appointed to write letters to Senator Wicks, Pomona and State Granges. Among the victims of the creek erosion are the properties owned by the Serota, Schoen, Paul, Klein, Steinberg and Schlaigel families.

While in Japan on a recent leave, Cpl. R. Allen Carle sent home two sets of beautiful handpointed china. One set was received by his mother, Mrs. Frank Carle and the other set was received by his fiancee, Miss Doris May. Each set consisted of sixty-three pieces and not a single piece was broken on the long journey from Japan. Allen is stationed in Korea.

Mrs. Jennie Fazio of Brooklyn and Mt. Tremper spent the weekend at her home on the Wittenberg road.

NO BALANCED BUDGET

Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey has made it plain that the budget will not be balanced this year. He fears that it may even be necessary for Congress to raise the limit on the national debt. The national debt is now limited by law to 275 billion dollars.

This news will not sit well with the people who hoped that the coming of a Republican administration would mean an immediate balancing of the budget and a reduction in taxes. Some Congressmen who will have to seek re-election next year fear that the news will not improve their chances. The administration has said repeatedly that tax cuts cannot come until a balanced budget is in sight.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey pointed out one important fact. About 65 to 70 per cent of the budget will be spent for defense and security. The remainder must be used for relatively fixed costs such as running the government and paying off the interest on the national debt.

There is little for the taxpayer to do except to accept the situation philosophically. Certainly the administration has made every effort to balance the budget. After 24 years out of power the Republicans have shown a great eagerness to better the fiscal record of their opponents. But circumstances will not permit it.

Taxes are high and it would be foolish to pretend that they do not hurt. But they will remain high so long as it is necessary to protect ourselves from the possibility of aggression. Every sensible citizen wants budget and reduction in taxes as quickly as possible. But no one wants to sacrifice security to get them.

Soil conditions are once more in the news. The faithful stand-by, however, is still the old two-in-one process at the end of the hoe which also conditions the back.

The next Olympic games will be held in Australia. It is definitely decided that kangaroos will not be permitted to enter the standing broad jump events.

PERIL OF THE FUTURE

Is it the law of history that there is always a new menace? In the 17th, 18th and 19th centuries Europe feared France. In this century it has been Germany. With the downfall of Germany it has become Russia. Some have speculated that eventually we might welcome Russian support against a huge and threatening China.

A different theory is advanced by Professor L. B. Namier of the British University of Manchester. In a new volume of essays, "Avenues of History," he stresses the ominous strength of Germany when once it has become reunited. He believes German leadership capable of making a second agreement with Russia and setting out again to rule Europe.

This happened after the German defeat of World War I, which should have been an ample lesson to that country. History may not repeat itself after World War II simply because German punishment was far more severe. Heavily bombed, invaded and partitioned, the nation ended with the contact on its borders of a much more powerful neighbor than she had ever had before. Surely even the most jingoistic German, if any are left, could take in the lesson.

In any case, Germany will still continue to exist, whether we like it or not. The wisest policy is to treat her decently as long as she behaves so, and take her into the Western community of nations.

Scientists have discovered that sweets are very bad for mice. Would it be a good idea to leave an opened box of candy where the mice can reach it, in an effort to kill them with kindness?

A tool kit for a gardener should include a hoe and rake, a pitchfork and a spade, a spreader for fertilizer and a large bottle of liniment for his back.

TRAVEL SPECIALISTS

It is amazing how varied have become the employes of our government. I came acros a new title recently that intrigued me—"Travel Development Specialist." It is apparently a sort of Cook's Tour salesman who drums up travel busines to foreign countries at the expense of the American taxpayer. All this is under the Point Four Program and these Travel Development Specialists are scattered over the earth.

They work for an office called Technical Cooperation Service, the idea being that they will show the natives how to do jobs which they have been doing their own way for some thousand years. But surely no one in Congress who voted for Point Four ever figured on the United States going into the travel business and hiring a lot of travel specialists.

The only excuse can be that Americans are great spenders and that travel (the Europeans call it tourisme) is a way to get American dollars out of this country into a foreign land. The Coronation of Elizabeth II, by all one hears about his friends going over to England this year, ought to close the dollar gap. I would have enjoyed going myself if I could get a seat say between the sixth and the tenth rows in Westminster Abbey, but to go to England to watch a short parade, albeit in costume, out of a store window, surrounded by emotional dowagers, clothes designers, and just plain "I was there" tourists, is not my idea either of an exhilarating experience with medievalism or just sheer fun. Furthermore, I went to the Inauguration of Eisenhower and learned my lesson about such events.

Now, to go back to the Travel Development Specialist, he also acts as a press agent and sends out publicity notices which he would like to have printed in American newspapers. For this he is paid by the American taxpayer. The Asociated Press, the United Press and the International News Service perform this service and charge the taxpayer nothing. They do it as a business and have trained men on the jobs. This particular news item, sent out by the Travel Development Specialist whose material I have before me, has to do with the discovery of 70 Biblical scrolls dating back 2,000 years.

While the material is quite interesting, I doubt whether many Americans will immediately go to Jerusalem to visit the "Antiquities of the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan." Therefore, one wonders why a servant of the American people, hired as a travel specialist engages in publicity work for a Jordan museum whose director is "British-born," as the notice says. I read the seven mimeographed pages of the news release and wondered how much it cost the United States to circulate them, including salaries, mimeograph machines and postage.

Incidentally, I am sure I read all about these discoveries several years ago, when they occurred, and found the data fuller than this release, but my point is not whether the press agentry is well or badly done, but rather why the American taxpayer should pay for it at all.

There has been a policy, for years, of throwing our money away, partly to redistribute wealth, partly to aid our allies, partly to debase the value of our currency, partly for sinister purposes. "Made-work" was a phrase used in WPA and PWA days, and many economists, who have feared a return of unemployment once we get ourselves out of war, believe that throwing money away is an excellent method of keeping out of a depression. The huge government payroll of between two and three million Americans is maintained not on a basis of necessity but on this general principle.

However, the extravagances of government expenditures on useless services are no longer possible because this country does not have the money to pay for them. Unless taxes go down, the law of diminishing returns will set in, as it already has in the upper brackets. This country is no longer rich and cannot be extravagant. Politicians of both parties continue to argue that they do not know where to cut expenditures and make a great to-do about not reducing defense expenditures.

But no defense expenditures are involved in cutting out all obvious extravagant and wasteful expenditures. Here is an example of something that has no utility and that serves no purpose. There must be thousands such wasteful operations in our government.

That Body of Yours

HEART DISEASE MAY NOT MEAN DEATH

Because of the millions of dollars the American Heart Association, Inc., distributes to the various hospitals and heart research organizations, many may think that the diseases of the heart are receiving sufficient attention. What we fail to realize is that before the American Heart Association began its definite work of finding out the causes and treatment of diseases of the heart, the great majority of us believed that once heart disease was discovered in any of us, we were doomed—doomed to death within weeks or months. Thanks to the American Heart Association and the sending-out to all physicians the latest findings of their research work, it can be safely stated that millions of lives have been saved or prolonged.

Although the 1953 Heart Fund Campaign was carried on in February, it is not too late to help this very worthy organization. I am therefore giving my readers some facts about the heart diseases:

Diseases of the heart and circulation of the blood cause one-half of all deaths in the United States and Canada; the death rate among males is one-third higher than among females.

Heart diseases can and do occur at all ages. However, over the age of 35, diseases of the heart and blood vessels lead all causes of death. Nearly one out of every two deaths after the age of 45 is caused by heart and blood vessel diseases. One-quarter of all deaths that occur between the ages of 25 and 45 are due to heart and blood vessel diseases.

The three most important forms of these heart dieases together account for over 90 per cent of all heart damage. They are rheumatic heart disease, which is caused by rheumatic fever; coronary heart disease caused by hardening and narrowing of the coronary (blood vessels of the heart) arteries (arteriosclerosis); and hypertensive heart disease, resulting from high blood pressure (hypertension). The causes of rheumatic fever, hypertension and arteriosclerosis are still unknown.

Heart disease caused by arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries) and high blood pressure are by far the most common form. Ninety per cent of deaths from heart and blood vessel disease are caused by arteriosclerosis and high blood pressure.

Notwithstanding these startling facts, by the work of the American Heart Association—research, education, and community service (welfare work and job placing)—great advances have been made. This voluntary organization, by its branches, has been able to rehabilitate a great many heart patients so that they are able to lead happy, useful and productive lives. The new knowledge acquired by research saves lives, alleviates suffering, and improves the nation's health. National headquarters of the American Heart Association, Inc., is located at 44 East 23rd street, New York 10, N. Y.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—Secretary of Interior Douglas McKay's announcement of the Eisenhower administration's new policy decision against federal construction of the controversial Hells Canyon dam project on the Oregon-Idaho line was made at the biggest press conference which Department of Interior has held since the late Secretary Harold Ickes held forth there.

It was a standing-room-only affair in the big, two-story high Interior conference room. It was not only Secretary McKay's first press conference since coming to Washington. He announced in advance he was going to talk about Hells Canyon. That was the tip-off the administration would reveal its new public power policy. So reporters came flocking.

In addition to this, Secretary McKay stacked the conference with nine western governors—all Republicans. They were in town for President Eisenhower's two-day meeting with the governors. Secretary McKay invited the western Republicans over for lunch—on Oregon salmon—then brought them into his press conference.

He lined them up on either side of his own chair at the head table and introduced them all. They were Pyle of Arizona, Warren of California, Thornton of Colorado, Jordan of Idaho, Russell of Nevada, Meechem of New Mexico, Patterson of Oregon, Langlie of Washington, and Rogers of Wyoming.

Governor Aronson of Montana had also been invited, but he had to fly home in a hurry on state business. Governor Shivers of Texas wasn't invited, said McKay, because he was "not a westerner."

Didn't Mean Endorsement

The presence of these governors at Secretary McKay's conference made it appear that they were all endorsing the new Republican power policy. But Secretary McKay went out of his way to explain that this was not the case.

The secretary said that at lunch they had asked him what he was going to announce at his press conference. He had told them. That was the first they ever heard of it. They had had no time to consider it. They had just been invited in as onlookers.

This was an important qualification, and it may have served to take the western governors off of what might become a hot political hook back home.

All the western states depend a great deal on federal electric power. Some of the states have big new projects coming before Congress for consideration. Others have major federal power projects under construction and they will need continuing funds from Congress.

While all of the Republican governors might personally and privately prefer to have their local private power companies build dams, and have the exclusive marketing rights for public power, to say so openly and at this time might have been political suicide, or at least self-inflicted political assault and battery.

Midway in the questioning period, after the secretary's prepared statement on Hells Canyon had been read, Governor Pyle of Arizona volunteered a statement on his own behalf that the announcement made by the secretary applied to this one project alone, and it would set no precedent on how other projects might be handled.

Avoided Involving Governors

Then at the end of the press conference, Secretary McKay made another statement that too much attention should not be attached to the presence of these governors at the conference. He didn't want to involve them too deeply in what was after all his problem.

Secretary McKay also left himself a couple escape hatches for use in case he might be sunk on this issue later.

The letter to the Federal Power Commission, saying that the Department of Interior would not intervene in opposition to Idaho Power Co.'s application to build the Oxbow Dam, was not signed by Secretary McKay. He left that to his counsel, Clarence J. Davis, former attorney general of Nebraska.

Also, the presentation of the Hells Canyon matter was left to Undersecretary Ralph A. Tudor, a former colonel in the Army Corps of Engineers.

Secretary McKay answered most of the questions at his press conference and, as master of ceremonies, was in control of the proceedings. But at one point, when the questioning got a little rough, the secretary said out loud that things were getting over his head and he had better call on counsel for advice. Mr. Davis took over.

On the same night, Secretary McKay made a speech to a Small Businessmen's Association meeting in Washington in which he said the government must continue to build multi-purpose dams. Only a few hours before, at his press conference, the secretary had clearly indicated he would not recommend building Hells Canyon.

New Joint Chiefs Naming Points Further to Reorganization Opposition

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 14—Selection of a new set of members of the joint chiefs of staff and a new chairman does not lessen but rather intensifies the growing opposition to the proposed reorganization plan for the Department of Defense. It is the principle rather than the personnel which is important in the problem.

This plan, which Thomas K. Finletter, formerly secretary of the air force, says he regards as a move toward a "German general staff" system, would enhance the power of the chairman of the joint chiefs and make him a military boss over all three armed services.

The reaction from the air force to the appointment of a navy admiral as chairman of the joint chiefs has been adverse largely because of the assumption that such a chairman can wield extraordinary powers over the air force. Since Admiral Radford, designated for chairman of the joint chiefs, is to serve only two years, it may be expected that the reaction among naval officers to the designation of an air force general as chairman two years hence would also be adverse.

The new reorganization plan is excellent in its provisions governing a consolidation of civilian functions and should lead to economies, but it is a step backward on the military side. Undoubtedly the administration, in selecting Admiral Radford to be chairman of the joint chiefs, believed that this would tend to mollify those opponents of the new reorganization plan who come from the navy, but actually opposition is coming from all three services because it is not a sound military plan.

It so happens that Admiral Radford is one of the ablest military officers America has ever had and undoubtedly he was chosen by President Eisenhower because of two things: First, a commitment publicly made in 1949 before a congressional committee by the then General Eisenhower that the chairmanship should go by rotation to the difference services and that he thought a navy admiral should be selected next, and second, an admiration for Admiral Radford's work in the Pacific, where he has been commander in chief of the fleet.

There is some mischievously expressed opposition to Admiral Radford in certain quarters on the ground that he testified in criticism of the air force concepts on weapons in the famous congressional hearings in 1949 concerning the B-36. But, since the Congress sought the testimony, it should not be any more of a barrier to his advancement than was the testimony of General Bradley. The latter, as chief of staff of the army, testified in the same hearings and called the navy admirals "Fancy Dans" and predicted there never would be another amphibious landing. But he was promoted just the same by President Truman to be chairman of the joint chiefs.

The new team selected for the military-advice function which the joint chiefs of staff is supposed to perform for the Secretary of Defense and the President is an excellent one in every respect. General Ridgway, who comes here to become chief of staff of the army, has been commander in chief in the Far East during a large part of the Korean war and also commander in chief of allied forces in Europe. General Twining, who becomes chief of the air force, is one of the ablest men in that service, with an excellent command record during the last war. As for Admiral Carney, who becomes chief of naval operations, he has been serving as commander of the allied forces in the south of Europe and has an especial familiarity with the Mediterranean. He made an enviable record as chief of staff to Admiral Halsey in the sea battles of the war against Japan.

This is an all-around team of able men with global experience—a much better team on the whole than has been available to the President of the United States since the days of World War 2. It is a group competent to give military advice with a world perspective and to operate the armed services effectively if a big war should break out.

But a much more sensible step would have been to have made Admiral Radford chief of naval operations and to have abolished the post of "chairman of the joint chiefs," creating in its place a post of secretary general of the joint chiefs, with Admiral Carney in that job. As a former deputy chief of naval operations in charge of logistics and as an experienced staff officer and planner, he would have been ideal as the leader of the joint staff responsible directly to the heads of the three armed services.

The reorganization plan now before Congress has in it so many vulnerable provisions that it cannot be critically examined on the basis simply of what able persons will execute the plan but only with the more important principle in mind that a system is being established for a long period of time. This system could demoralize the spirit of all the armed services by depriving their chiefs of less and less voice in the higher councils of the government where military policy is to be made by a secretary of defense and a military boss with a general staff of his own.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Corporations which confront their helpless stockholders with sumptuous pensions for well-paid ruling executives, usually argue that company "A" must provide these "incentives" because otherwise company "B" will lure away the best talent. The answer to this would be a national law forbidding such greedy rackets altogether. Then they would all be on a level footing and a cynical tax-dodge would be stopped.

Emboldened by the selfishness of the executives in high salary brackets, the unions, especially those of the CIO, have moved in with similar demands for hidden or disguised compensation called "fringe benefits." It was embarrassing for an executive drawing say, $150,000 a year, and accumulating pension rights at the expense of the stockholders, to argue that the horny-handed types of labor were less deserving of pensions and other trick benefits. The credits to all such recipients always are immune from the income tax. So the executive said: "Sure; we are very liberal, broad-minded fellows and we recognize the justice of your demands."

The result has been that the ordinary small stockholder, who is the greatest aggregate investor in big business, has found himself burdened with a liability for pensions to thousands of employes, though he himself can look forward to nothing better than the erratic and fraudulent pension of social security.

I will go into detail about the corrupt and economically dangerous fraud of Social Security at a later date, but for the moment no more proof of its wickedness need be offered than the fact that the victim is compelled to buy it from an insurance company which makes its own terms and changes them in its own favor right along. No contract is valid without free will on both sides. No contract is good in which one party has the right to change the terms and the other party is compelled to pay whatever the first party demands, under penalty of jail.

I have dealt in some detail with a notice which Sinclair Oil, of New York, sent to its stockholders in anticipation of the April meeting of "stockholders." This typical notice of a company meeting sounds the pitch of such deliberations. You will see that those present look out for themselves and for the lesser employes on the ground that anything good for them is good for the company and that which is good for the company is good for the stockholders.

Under the heading of "proposed savings plan for employes," this notice blandly says: "The desirability of plans for systematic savings by employes, including officers, has become widely recognized—."

Recognized by whom? Not by the stockholders but by selfish executives and union bargainers taking advantage of their precedent.

"—And such plans have been adopted by most of the larger oil companies which are the competitors of the corporation."

The unspoken truth of that is of course, that such executives are members of a circle of familiars and are, on the average, personal friends with a common standard of ethics.

"As the result of collective bargaining concerning demands by unions representing a large percentage of employes, the corporation's principal subsidiaries have agreed on the proposed plan, subject to approval," etc.

Therefore, any employe with one year's service may bank up to five per cent of his pay in a special company fund and the good old reliable sucker with ten shares of common stock will be forced to give this employe, free, one-half of the amount of his allotment. In other words, give a tax-exempt bonus of 2½ per cent of the entire payroll to employes already well paid. There are some trivial minor provisions but, at the very worst, the employe, of whatever degree, gets back all he put in.

The excuse given the stockholder for this coddling paternalism at his expense is that the plan "will attract and retain desirable workers, promote employe morale and encourage thrift on the part of employes by affording them a method to provide additional security for their retirement."

All concerned are, of course, eligible for company pensions, which are actually compensation for their working years but excused from current income taxes during those years. And, in addition, all concerned become eligible for their old age pensions under Social Security on reaching 65.

The stockholder, on the other hand, finds his stock dividends badly diminished by these commitments to the employes and if, on reaching 65, he must continue to hold a job to eke out a living, he forfeits his Social Security pension.

NO BALANCED BUDGET

Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey has made it plain that the budget will not be balanced this year. He fears that it may even be necessary for Congress to raise the limit on the national debt. The national debt is now limited by law to 275 billion dollars.

This news will not sit well with the people who hoped that the coming of a Republican administration would mean an immediate balancing of the budget and a reduction in taxes. Some Congressmen who will have to seek re-election next year fear that the news will not improve their chances. The administration has said repeatedly that tax cuts cannot come until a balanced budget is in sight.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey pointed out one important fact. About 65 to 70 per cent of the budget will be spent for defense and security. The remainder must be used for relatively fixed costs such as running the government and paying off the interest on the national debt.

There is little for the taxpayer to do except to accept the situation philosophically. Certainly the administration has made every effort to balance the budget. After 24 years out of power the Republicans have shown a great eagerness to better the fiscal record of their opponents. But circumstances will not permit it.

Taxes are high and it would be foolish to pretend that they do not hurt. But they will remain high so long as it is necessary to protect ourselves from the possibility of aggression. Every sensible citizen wants budget and reduction in taxes as quickly as possible. But no one wants to sacrifice security to get them.

Soil conditions are once more in the news. The faithful stand-by, however, is still the old two-in-one process at the end of the hoe which also conditions the back.

The next Olympic games will be held in Australia. It is definitely decided that kangaroos will not be permitted to enter the standing broad jump events.

PERIL OF THE FUTURE

Is it the law of history that there is always a new menace? In the 17th, 18th and 19th centuries Europe feared France. In this century it has been Germany. With the downfall of Germany it has become Russia. Some have speculated that eventually we might welcome Russian support against a huge and threatening China.

A different theory is advanced by Professor L. B. Namier of the British University of Manchester. In a new volume of essays, "Avenues of History," he stresses the ominous strength of Germany when once it has become reunited. He believes German leadership capable of making a second agreement with Russia and setting out again to rule Europe.

This happened after the German defeat of World War I, which should have been an ample lesson to that country. History may not repeat itself after World War II simply because German punishment was far more severe. Heavily bombed, invaded and partitioned, the nation ended with the contact on its borders of a much more powerful neighbor than she had ever had before. Surely even the most jingoistic German, if any are left, could take in the lesson.

In any case, Germany will still continue to exist, whether we like it or not. The wisest policy is to treat her decently as long as she behaves so, and take her into the Western community of nations.

Scientists have discovered that sweets are very bad for mice. Would it be a good idea to leave an opened box of candy where the mice can reach it, in an effort to kill them with kindness?

A tool kit for a gardener should include a hoe and rake, a pitchfork and a spade, a spreader for fertilizer and a large bottle of liniment for his back.

TRAVEL SPECIALISTS

It is amazing how varied have become the employes of our government. I came acros a new title recently that intrigued me—"Travel Development Specialist." It is apparently a sort of Cook's Tour salesman who drums up travel busines to foreign countries at the expense of the American taxpayer. All this is under the Point Four Program and these Travel Development Specialists are scattered over the earth.

They work for an office called Technical Cooperation Service, the idea being that they will show the natives how to do jobs which they have been doing their own way for some thousand years. But surely no one in Congress who voted for Point Four ever figured on the United States going into the travel business and hiring a lot of travel specialists.

The only excuse can be that Americans are great spenders and that travel (the Europeans call it tourisme) is a way to get American dollars out of this country into a foreign land. The Coronation of Elizabeth II, by all one hears about his friends going over to England this year, ought to close the dollar gap. I would have enjoyed going myself if I could get a seat say between the sixth and the tenth rows in Westminster Abbey, but to go to England to watch a short parade, albeit in costume, out of a store window, surrounded by emotional dowagers, clothes designers, and just plain "I was there" tourists, is not my idea either of an exhilarating experience with medievalism or just sheer fun. Furthermore, I went to the Inauguration of Eisenhower and learned my lesson about such events.

Now, to go back to the Travel Development Specialist, he also acts as a press agent and sends out publicity notices which he would like to have printed in American newspapers. For this he is paid by the American taxpayer. The Asociated Press, the United Press and the International News Service perform this service and charge the taxpayer nothing. They do it as a business and have trained men on the jobs. This particular news item, sent out by the Travel Development Specialist whose material I have before me, has to do with the discovery of 70 Biblical scrolls dating back 2,000 years.

While the material is quite interesting, I doubt whether many Americans will immediately go to Jerusalem to visit the "Antiquities of the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan." Therefore, one wonders why a servant of the American people, hired as a travel specialist engages in publicity work for a Jordan museum whose director is "British-born," as the notice says. I read the seven mimeographed pages of the news release and wondered how much it cost the United States to circulate them, including salaries, mimeograph machines and postage.

Incidentally, I am sure I read all about these discoveries several years ago, when they occurred, and found the data fuller than this release, but my point is not whether the press agentry is well or badly done, but rather why the American taxpayer should pay for it at all.

There has been a policy, for years, of throwing our money away, partly to redistribute wealth, partly to aid our allies, partly to debase the value of our currency, partly for sinister purposes. "Made-work" was a phrase used in WPA and PWA days, and many economists, who have feared a return of unemployment once we get ourselves out of war, believe that throwing money away is an excellent method of keeping out of a depression. The huge government payroll of between two and three million Americans is maintained not on a basis of necessity but on this general principle.

However, the extravagances of government expenditures on useless services are no longer possible because this country does not have the money to pay for them. Unless taxes go down, the law of diminishing returns will set in, as it already has in the upper brackets. This country is no longer rich and cannot be extravagant. Politicians of both parties continue to argue that they do not know where to cut expenditures and make a great to-do about not reducing defense expenditures.

But no defense expenditures are involved in cutting out all obvious extravagant and wasteful expenditures. Here is an example of something that has no utility and that serves no purpose. There must be thousands such wasteful operations in our government.

That Body of Yours

HEART DISEASE MAY NOT MEAN DEATH

Because of the millions of dollars the American Heart Association, Inc., distributes to the various hospitals and heart research organizations, many may think that the diseases of the heart are receiving sufficient attention. What we fail to realize is that before the American Heart Association began its definite work of finding out the cause and treatment of diseases of the heart, the great majority of us believed that once heart disease was discovered in any of us, we were doomed—doomed to death within weeks or months. Thanks to the American Heart Association and the sending-out to all physicians the latest findings of their research work, it can be safely stated that millions of lives have been saved or prolonged.

Although the 1953 Heart Fund Campaign was carried on in February, it is not too late to help this very worthy organization. I am therefore giving my readers some facts about the heart diseases:

Diseases of the heart and circulation of the blood cause one-half of all deaths in the United States and Canada; the death rate among males is one-third higher than among females.

Heart diesases can and do occur at all ages. However, over the age of 35, diseases of the heart and blood vessels lead all causes of death. Nearly one out of every two deaths after the age of 45 is caused by heart and blood vessel diseases. One-quarter of all deaths that occur between the ages of 25 and 45 are due to heart and blood vessel diseases.

The three most important forms of these heart dieases together account for over 90 per cent of all heart damage. They are rheumatic heart disease, which is caused by rheumatic fever; coronary heart disease caused by hardening and narrowing of the coronary (blood vessels of the heart) arteries (arteriosclerosis); and hypertensive heart disease, resulting from high blood pressure (hypertension). The causes of rheumatic fever, hypertension and arteriosclerosis are still unknown.

Heart disease caused by arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries) and high blood pressure are by far the most common form. Ninety per cent of deaths from heart and blood vessel disease are caused by arteriosclerosis and high blood pressure.

Notwithstanding these startling facts, by the work of the American Heart Association—research, education, and community service (welfare work and job placing)—great advances have been made. This voluntary organization, by its branches, has been able to rehabilitate a great many heart patients so that they are able to lead happy, useful and productive lives. The new knowledge acquired by research saves lives, alleviates suffering, and improves the nation's health. National headquarters of the American Heart Association, Inc., is located at 44 East 23rd street, New York 10, N. Y.

"Boy! Smell That Air!"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—Secretary of Interior Douglas McKay's announcement of the Eisenhower administration's new policy decision against federal construction of the controversial Hells Canyon dam project on the Oregon-Idaho line was made at the biggest press conference which Department of Interior has held since the late Secretary Harold Ickes held forth there.

It was a standing-room-only affair in the big, two-story high Interior conference room. It was not only Secretary McKay's first press conference since coming to Washington. He announced in advance he was going to talk about Hells Canyon. That was the tip-off the administration would reveal its new public power policy. So reporters came flocking.

In addition to this, Secretary McKay stacked the conference with nine western governors—all Republicans. They were in town for President Eisenhower's two-day meeting with the governors. Secretary McKay invited the western Republicans over for lunch—on Oregon salmon—then brought them into his press conference.

He lined them up on either side of his own chair at the head table and introduced them all. They were Pyle of Arizona, Warren of California, Thornton of Colorado, Jordan of Idaho, Russell of Nevada, Meechem of New Mexico, Patterson of Oregon, Langlie of Washington, and Rogers of Wyoming.

Governor Aronson of Montana had also been invited, but he had to fly home in a hurry on state business. Governor Shivers of Texas wasn't invited, said McKay, because he was "not a westerner."

Didn't Mean Endorsement

The presence of these governors at Secretary McKay's conference made it appear that they were all endorsing the new Republican power policy. But Secretary McKay went out of his way to explain that this was not the case.

The secretary said that at lunch they had asked him what he was going to announce at his press conference. He had told them. That was the first they ever heard of it. They had had no time to consider it. They had just been invited in as onlookers.

This was an important qualification, and it may have served to take the western governors off of what might become a hot political hook back home.

All the western states depend a great deal on federal electric power. Some of the states have big new projects coming before Congress for consideration. Others have major federal power projects under construction and they will need continuing funds from Congress.

While all of the Republican governors might personally and privately prefer to have their local private power companies build dams, and have the exclusive marketing rights for public power, to say so openly and at this time might have been political suicide, or at least self-inflicted political assault and battery.

Midway in the questioning period, after the secretary's prepared statement on Hells Canyon had been read, Governor Pyle of Arizona volunteered a statement on his own behalf that the announcement made by the secretary applied to this one project alone, and it would set no precedent on how other projects might be handled.

Avoided Involving Governors

Then at the end of the press conference, Secretary McKay made another statement that too much attention should not be attached to the presence of these governors at the conference. He didn't want to involve them too deeply in what was after all his problem.

Secretary McKay also left himself a couple escape hatches for use in case he might be sunk on this issue later.

The letter to the Federal Power Commission, saying that the Department of Interior would not intervene in opposition to Idaho Power Co.'s application to build the Oxbow Dam, was not signed by Secretary McKay. He left that to his counsel, Clarence J. Davis, former attorney general of Nebraska.

Also, the presentation of the Hells Canyon matter was left to Undersecretary Ralph A. Tudor, a former colonel in the Army Corps of Engineers.

Secretary McKay answered most of the questions at his press conference and, as master of ceremonies, was in control of the proceedings. But at one point, when the questioning got a little rough, the secretary said out loud that things were getting over his head and he had better call on counsel for advice. Mr. Davis took over.

On the same night, Secretary McKay made a speech to a Small Businessmen's Association meeting in Washington in which he said the government must continue to build multi-purpose dams. Only a few hours before, at his press conference, the secretary had clearly indicated he would not recommend building Hells Canyon.

He made an enviable record as chief of staff to Admiral Halsey in the sea battles of the war against Japan.

This is an all-around team of able men with global experience—a much better team on the whole than has been available to the President of the United States since the days of World War 2. It is a group competent to give military advice with a world perspective and to operate the armed services effectively if a big war should break out.

But a much more sensible step would have been to have made Admiral Radford chief of naval operations and to have abolished the post of "chairman of the joint chiefs," creating in its place a post of secretary general of the joint chiefs, with Admiral Carney in that job. As a former deputy chief of naval operations in charge of logistics and as an experienced staff officer and planner, he would have been ideal as the leader of the joint staff responsible directly to the heads of the three armed services.

The reorganization plan now before Congress has in it so many vulnerable provisions that it cannot be critically examined on the basis simply of what able persons will execute the plan but only with the more important principle in mind that a system is being established for a long period of time. This system could demoralize the spirit of all the armed services by depriving their chiefs of less and less voice in the higher councils of the government where military policy is to be made by a secretary of defense and a military boss with a general staff of his own.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Corporations which confront their helpless stockholders with sumptuous pensions for well-paid ruling executives, usually argue that company "A" must provide these "incentives" because otherwise company "B" will lure away the best talent. The answer to this would be a national law forbidding such greedy rackets altogether. Then they would all be on a level footing and a cynical tax-dodge would be stopped.

Emboldened by the selfishness of the executives in high salary brackets, the unions, especially those of the CIO, have moved in with similar demands for hidden or disguised compensation called "fringe benefits." It was embarrassing for an executive drawing say, $150,000 a year, and accumulating pension rights at the expense of the stockholders, to argue that the horny-handed types of labor were less deserving of pensions and other trick benefits. The credits to all such recipients always are immune from the income tax. So the executive said: "Sure; we are very liberal, broad-minded fellows and we recognize the justice of your demands."

The result has been that the ordinary small stockholder, who is the greatest aggregate investor in big business, has found himself burdened with a liability for pensions to thousands of employes, though he himself can look forward to nothing better than the erratic and fraudulent pension of social security.

I will go into detail about the corrupt and economically dangerous fraud of Social Security at a later date, but for the moment no more proof of its wickedness need be offered than the fact that the victim is compelled to buy it from an insurance company which makes its own terms and changes them in its own favor right along. No contract is valid without free will on both sides. No contract is good in which one party has the right to change the terms and the other party is compelled to pay whatever the first party demands, under penalty of jail.

I have dealt in some detail with a notice which Sinclair Oil, of New York, sent to its stockholders in anticipation of the April meeting of "stockholders." This typical notice of a company meeting sounds the pitch of such deliberations. You will see that those present look out for themselves and for the lesser employes on the ground that anything good for them is good for the company and that which is good for the company is good for the stockholders.

Under the heading of "proposed savings plan for employes," this notice blandly says: "The desirability of plans for systematic savings by employes, including officers, has become widely recognized—."

Recognized by whom? Not by the stockholders but by selfish executives and union bargainers taking advantage of their precedent.

"—And such plans have been adopted by most of the larger oil companies which are the competitors of the corporation."

The unspoken truth of that is of course, that such executives are members of a circle of familiars and are, on the average, personal friends with a common standard of ethics.

"As the result of collective bargaining concerning demands by unions representing a large percentage of employes, the corporation's principal subsidiaries have agreed on the proposed plan, subject to approval," etc.

Therefore, any employe with one year's service may bank up to five per cent of his pay in a special company fund and the good old reliable sucker with ten shares of common stock will be forced to give this employe, free, one-half of the amount of his allotment. In other words, give a tax-exempt bonus of 2½ per cent of the entire payroll to employes already well paid. There are some trivial minor provisions but, at the very worst, the employe, of whatever degree, gets back all he put in.

The excuse given the stockholder for this coddling paternalism at his expense is that the plan "will attract and retain desirable workers, promote employe morale and encourage thrift on the part of employes by affording them a method to provide additional security for their retirement."

All concerned are, of course, eligible for company pensions, which are actually compensation for their working years but excused from current income taxes during those years. And, in addition, all concerned become eligible for their old age pensions under Social Security on reaching 65.

The stockholder, on the other hand, finds his stock dividends badly diminished by these commitments to the employes and if, on reaching 65, he must continue to hold a job to eke out a living, he forfeits his Social Security pension.

British Soldiers Are Cut Off From Buying in Egypt

Cairo, Egypt, May 14 (AP)—Egypt was reported today trying to throw an economic noose around the 80,000 British soldiers she wants to push out of the bitterly-disputed Suez Canal zone.

Interior ministry sources said Premier Mohamed Naguib's cabinet has prohibited commercial transactions with British forces in the Suez except by "special approval by the supply ministry."

The order, these sources said, applies to foodstuffs, alcoholic beverages, building materials and other raw materials. Banning of Egyptian sales of all these would force the British to supply their vast establishment entirely from outside Egypt.

Boycott Is Seen

Egyptian political circles viewed the cabinet's new move as the start of a growing economic boycott of British forces in the canal zone. It followed a hot exchange of charges between Britain and Egypt in which each accused the other of a series of shooting attacks in the canal zone since April 1.

Cairo newspaper claimed today that an Egyptian gunsalvo last night, announcing the beginning of the Moslem holy month or Ramadan, touched off five hours of British firing in which one Egyptian was wounded.

An Associated Press dispatch from Port Said, however, said that all was quiet today at the canal's northern end. The dispatch said that one British vessel arrived from Cyprus today and began unloading war material, and another was expected later in the day.

Durable Schools

Leadville, Colo. (AP)—This mining town, nearly two miles high in the Colorado Rockies, will have its first new school buildings this year since the high school was built in 1899. A junior high school and a grade school are being financed by a $700,000 bond issue voted last fall.

Tidelands Bill Now Before President

Washington, May 14 (AP)—Twice-vetoed legislation to give states title to oil-rich, submerged offshore lands was ready today for the promised signature of President Eisenhower.

It cleared its final congressional hurdle yesterday when the House, by roll call vote of 278 to 116, accepted Senate amendments to an original House measure. That sent it to the White House, where popularly called "tidelands bill" have gone before.

In 1948 President Truman vetoed a similar measure, as he did again in 1951.

The five-year issue figured prominently in the 1952 presidential campaign, during which Eisenhower promised to support the coastal states' claim to the offshore land and its rich mineral resources.

Final House action found 184 Republicans and 94 Democrats supporting the bill. Opposing it were 98 Democrats, 17 Republicans and one Independent.

Young Prosecutor

James Wilson Reed, 25-year-old prosecuting attorney of Clay county, will handle the state's case when 48 men are tried for the murder of an Elk River coal and lumber company employe last week. Reed was elected prosecutor about five months after he was graduated from West Virginia University's law school.

Officials Reject Impy's Demand for Special Session

Albany, May 14 (AP) — Gov. Dewey's administration today rejected as "without merit" Mayor Impellitteri's demand for a special legislative session to revamp the Dewey-drawn fiscal program for hard-up New York city.

Top state officials, appointed by Dewey to consider the city's protests over a fiscal program approved by the 1953 Legislature, said there was "no justification for further consideration" of the city's objections "at this time."

The group, headed by Lt. Gov. Frank C. Moore, also demanded that the city cooperate in setting up the new transit authority and getting it started.

The five-member authority, set up at Dewey's insistence, was authorized to take over the deficit-ridden city transit facilities and put them on a paying basis, even if it meant a boost in the current, basic 10-cent fare.

May Amend Statutes

"We think it imperative that the transit authority first be given a fair chance to get started," the Dewey committee said.

"Then, if on the basis of operating experience, it should develop that changes are necessary or desirable, the statutes can be amended."

In addition to Moore, the group comprised State Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern, Atty. Gen. Nathaniel L. Goldstein, Budget Director T. Norman Hurd, and George M. Shapiro, Dewey's counsel.

Impellitteri had asked that Dewey call a special session immediately to make changes in the transit authority law and other fiscal legislation enacted this year.

City Comptroller Lazarus Joseph also had protested parts of the transit law. The Dewey committee also rejected his demand in today's report.

Church Delegates Attend Episcopal Diocese Meeting

A group of Episcopal Church representatives from Ulster county attended the 172nd convention of the Episcopal Diocese of New York Tuesday in New York.

Attending were George W. Nichols of Bloomington, a delegate from All Saints, Rosendale; H. Edgar Timmerman of West Shokan and Hubert Smith of High Falls, delegates from St. Peter's in Stone Ridge, and the Rev. Charles H. Brieant, rector of the Stone Ridge Parish.

Among those who addressed the meeting were the Rt. Rev. H. W. B. Donegan, bishop of the diocese, and the Rev. Frederick T. Grant of the Union Theological Seminary.

A resolution to permit women to sit as delegates was passed but will not become effective until passed by the convention in 1954. Resolutions changing the canons of the diocese to permit women to serve on advisory boards of missions and as wardens and vestrymen of parishes were adopted but must be passed at a subsequent convention to become effective.

Unwelcome Guest

Tucson, Ariz. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Smith found an unwelcome guest in the small pool at their home here. It was a 2½-foot alligator. They transferred the reptile to a barrel. Where the 'gator came from the Smiths do not know.

Carney Welcomes Chance

Naples, Italy, May 14 (AP)—Adm. Robert B. Carney, President Eisenhower's choice to boss the U. S. Navy, said today that "nothing more wonderful could happen to a sailor." For the past two years Carney has been commander in chief of North Atlantic Treaty forces in southern Europe, with headquarters here. The date when he will leave for Washington to become U. S. chief of Naval operations has not yet been set. "I have worked at being a sailor 41 years and only hope in those 41 years I learned enough to do the things expected of me by the service and by the President in my new job," he told a reporter.

Ice Cube Robbery

Butte, Mont. (AP) — Thieves swapped ice cubes for cold cash at a Butte tavern. The burglars grabbed $18 from the cash register and then filled it with ice cubes. The sheriff said he would welcome the crooks to a cube in the county cooler.

Draft Call Is 23,000

Washington, May 14 (AP)—The army draft call for July is 23,000, the lowest since last June's record low of 10,000. The July call, issued yesterday, brings to 1,469,430 the number of men drafted or earmarked for induction since Selective Service was resumed after the Korean war started in mid-1950. Secretary of Defense Wilson has said he hopes to keep draft calls hereafter to around 25,000 and to maintain strength by a lower rate of turnover and more front line use of military manpower.

Seven Arrested In Interstate Divorce Racket

New Haven, Conn., May 14 (AP)—Seven New Yorkers faced perjury charges today in the state's attorney's investigation of an admitted interstate divorce racket, to which a New York attorney has pleaded guilty and faces a maximum penalty of 60 years in prison, the state attorney's office said.

The arrests of the seven persons were announced last night by County Detective Edmund Flanagan after he returned from New York city where he served warrants.

He said they are scheduled to appear in Superior Court here today.

The detective said the seven were clients of Attorney John B. Pharr, Jr., who last week pleaded guilty to 12 counts of perjury and a charge of obtaining fraudulent divorces in New Haven county.

The latest action brought to eight the number of arrests of persons for whom Pharr allegedly obtained fraudulent divorces.

State's Attorney Abraham S. Ullman charges Pharr and his clients lied about their addresses in obtaining the divorces. He said all have given false New Haven county addresses.

Previously arrested on a perjury charge was Mrs. Priscilla McClain of New York city.

Ullman said Pharr is scheduled for sentencing in Superior Court today and faces a maximum penalty of 60 years in prison.

Flanagan identified those arrested as Stella Shelley, New York city; Edythe Caldwell, 683 Jackson avenue, Bronx, N. Y.; Gloria Hendrix, New York city; Orcelious New York city.

Also, Willie B. Macdowell, New York city; Pedron Nam Yanes, Brooklyn, and Edna E. Jackson, 70 Orchard street, Roslyn Heights, L. I.

Woman Is Charged

New York, May 14 (AP)—Valerie Dorfman, 24, of 41-42 44th street, Long Island City, Queens, who said she is a television actress known professionally as "Candy Nelson," was booked by police last night on charges of grand larceny and forgery brought by Saks' Fifth avenue department store. Patrick King, store detective, said that on Monday and Tuesday Miss Dorfman obtained $443 worth of merchandise by pretending the identities of several customers with charge accounts. A salesgirl pointed her out when she appeared in the store late yesterday, police said.

The U. S. government spent about $51,700,000 in 1952 on farm research and development.

Nap Costs His Life

Massapequa, May 14 (AP)—Many a commuter dozes going home on the train. But James E. Fagan's nap led to his death. The 49-year-old telephone company official was sleeping last night when the train reached his stop at this Long Island community. As the train pulled out, he awakened. Fagan ran to the door. The train, gathering speed, still was alongside the platform. Bracing himself for an instant, he leaped and landed on the platform. Then, before other commuters could give him a hand, he lost his balance, teetered backward and was crushed under the wheels.

Some animals and birds are colored in warm weather, but white during the winter.

Increases Are Granted

New York, May 14 (AP)—An arbitrator yesterday granted a $3 to $5 a week cost of living wage increase to 60,000 women's coat and suit makers in the New York area. It becomes effective July 6. The AFL International Ladies Garment Workers Union said 96 per cent of the employes will get the top increase. Present wages in the industry average $84 a week. The cost of living was based on the index rise since 1950.

Steel Talks Are Watched to Note New Wage Demand

Pittsburgh, May 14 (AP) — Industrial America and the Eisenhower administration watched the steel capital today for an indication of what may be in the wind in the way of steel wage increases which could affect the prices of practically every commodity in the land.

The watchful waiting began as the CIO United Steelworkers opens its first negotiating session today with big United States Steel Corp.

The steelworkers union is asking the industry to increase wages of its 1,100,000 members. It traditionally begins its bargaining with U. S. Steel, which usually sets the pace for the entire industry.

Steel Sets Pattern

In past years wage increases in steel were followed by similar hikes in other industries. That is why the other industries and the new Eisenhower administration are watching what will happen. Since wage and price controls were lifted, the new GOP administration has said it would make every effort to head off another inflationary spiral.

The Steelworkers Union, which also scheduled a negotiating session with Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. in Youngstown, O., hasn't spelled out its demands. But it is believed to be seeking about 10 cents an hour more for workers now averaging from $2.06 to $2.20.

If no agreement is reached by June 30 the union is free to strike.

Fingerprint School Set

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren today announced a fingerprint school will be held in the city hall starting May 18 for members of the police department and others interested. From 12 to 15 men including some from the sheriff's office are expected to attend. Classes will be held from 9 a. m. to noon and from 1 p. m., to 4:30 p. m.

Urges Ike Speak Out To Win British Aid

U. S. Uproar Greeted With Alarm, Bitterness

London, May 14 (AP)—The U. S. congressional uproar over former Prime Minister Clement Attlee's assertion that some elements in America oppose a Korean peace was greeted with alarm or bitterness in much of the British press today.

Moscow Radio, meanwhile, poured oil on the flames with a lengthy review of the "ever-growing dissatisfaction with various aspects of United States policy" in the British House of Commons.

Attlee, leader of the opposition Labor Party, made his assertion Tuesday during a Commons foreign policy debate that won the biggest play in Soviet newspapers given a British parliamentary discussion in many years.

Calls for Firm Policy Now Toward Reds in Korea Area, Elsewhere

Washington, May 14 (AP)—Sen. Ferguson (R.-Mich.) today urged President Eisenhower to "speak out now" in an effort to win British support for a firm policy toward the Communists in Korea and elsewhere in Asia.

He made the suggestion in an interview at a time of increasingly bitter trans-Atlantic gibes between lawmakers of the two longtime allies.

Sen. Knowland (R.-Calif.) yesterday denounced as a "Munich" appeasement inviting World War III proposals by Prime Minister Churchill and Clement Attlee. Knowland particularly objected to any truce which would leave Korea divided and lead to admission of Red China into the United Nations.

Backing this up Ferguson said the President should make a public statement "that shows our policies do not coincide with those of Churchill and Attlee."

"An early statement on our stand by the President would be of great benefit," the Michigan senator said. "Churchill and Attlee have been advertising to the world where Britain is going to stand in the Korean peace negotiations—if there is a cease fire—and I am fearful this will discourage our allies in their efforts to resist communism.

"But I still hope we can be reunited with Britain and our other allies in a firm stand against the expansion of communism and the President is the man to do it."

Eisenhower was certain to be presented with the opportunity to express his views at a White House news conference today.

Attack British Views

Although Knowland and Ferguson led the attack on British views as Republican members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, they were not without some Democratic support.

Sen. Russel (D.-Ga.), top Democrat on the Armed Services Committee, said in a separate interview he believes UN negotiations already have "yielded too much" to the Communists in Korea truce talks.

He alluded to the UN offer to transfer to a five-nation commission custody of Chinese Communist prisoners who don't want to go home. The UN proposal was rejected by the Communists.

"I regret to see the softened policy in Korea," Russell said. "I am not in favor of the Churchill and Attlee policies, although I assume there was a great deal in their speeches which was designed for home consumption."

Attlee is leader of the British Labor party and former prime minister. His and Churchill's statements were made in a House of debate on foreign policy.

Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) said Britain should apologize for what he termed a "cheap" attack on Eisenhower and the American people by Attlee.

Majority members of the British Parliament, he said in a speech prepared for the Senate, sat silent while Attlee made "one of the most insulting speeches ever made in the legislative body of a recipient nation against an ally which has been pouring out her economic life blood for practically every other nation of the earth."

The State Department late yesterday threw a little cold water on Churchill's suggestion Monday for a meeting of western and Russian leaders—without great delay, Sir Winston said.

With a bow to the British prime minister—the suggestion was "a further manifestation of his own high purpose," the department said—it nevertheless stressed that before any such talks, there must be concrete evidence of Soviet good faith.

Wants Private . . .

Herbert H. Lehman and Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., New York Democrats.

Balch assailed another bill, introduced by Republicans, which would permit development of Niagara power by private companies.

Balch said in a statement that the GOP-controlled New York State Power Authority intends to turn over to private utility companies of the state the electric power to be produced by the projected development of the Niagara and St. Lawrence rivers.

The Democratic chairman said New York state consumers of electric power should be protected from what he called a "grab."

Balch said the Lehman-Roosevelt bill provides for "public development with specific safeguards for consumers."

Johnson Pleads Guilty, Sentence Is Deferred

Abraham Johnson, 46, of Kerhonkson, pleaded guilty at a hearing Wednesday night before Police Justice Benjamin Lonstein in Ellenville on a gambling charge. Sentencing was deferred by Judge Lonstein to Tuesday, May 19.

Johnson was arrested on April 29 at Ellenville, during simultaneous raids and arrests there and at Kingston in which local police, sheriff's men and state police participated under the direction of District Attorney Howard C. St. John.

Johnson was charged with violation of Section 986 of the Penal Law, dealing with accepting wagers on numbers, a misdemeanor.

At Wednesday's hearing, Attorney Charles Gaffney represented The People. Attorney John Bonomi represented Johnson.

Planting Behind

weeks behind schedule. H. E. Johnson foresaw a reduction in the Monroe county crop, but said wheat prospects were average.

Barley was reported faring no better, and most vegetable crops appeared likely to be delayed. The rain had made it impossible for many farmers to prepare their swamped soil for planting.

In Niagara county, heart of the state's million-dollar fruit belt, farmers were worried over pollination of their apple crops. Apple growers in Oneida county and fruit farmers in the Hudson valley said they are spraying their trees five to six times—where three sprayings unually do the job—because rain was washing off the "bug juice."

Potato growers on Long Island reported some seed was rotting in flooded areas and planting was stalled by the rain.

Agriculture agents from Fulton, Montgomery, Herkimer, Rensselaer, Schenectady, Albany and Saratoga counties agreed that there would be no early crops in their areas this year.

Romulo Quits Posts

Manila, May 14 (AP)—Carlos P. Romulo tonight resigned as the Philippines ambassador to Washington and chief delegate to the United Nations and said he would seek the administration Liberal Party's nomination for president. President Elpilio Quirino has announced that he will be a candidate for renomination in the convention which opens May 24. "We will fight it out in the convention," Romulo said tonight after handing his resignation to Quirino.

Traffic Violators In Police Court

Robert Stewart, 21, of 22 Stuyvesant street, was arrested at 8:10 a. m., today by Officer Gurnsey Burger, Jr., on central Broadway, on a charge of reckless driving.

Arraigned before City Judge Raymond J. Mino, he pleaded guilty and was fined $25. Officer Burger said Stewart was cutting in and out of traffic in a reckless manner.

Joseph Molan, Jr., 25, of Saugerties, was arrested by Officers Francis Loeffler and James Harbeck at 1:05 a. m., today on a charge of speeding on Albany avenue near Foxhall avenue. He forfeited $20 bail through failure to appear in city court.

The case of Lawrence T. Shaw, 28, of 124 West Chestnut street, charged with leaving the scene of an accident after striking a parking meter on East Strand, was put over until May 19 when he appeared before Judge Mino today. He was represented by Attorney Bernard A. Culloton.

Mediator to Check Strike

Syracuse, May 14 (AP)—A federal mediator today stepped into the CIO electrical workers strike that for 41 days has idled about 11,000 workers at two General Electric Company plants here. James J. Carroll announced last night that the U. S. Mediation Service had assigned him to the dispute over local issues. A GE spokesman said company officials would confer with Carroll today.

Why We Say--

Very Sick

This very popular expression is derived from hospitals where patients suffering with delirium tremens (from alcohol) would complain of seeing "blue devils". . . . They would be referred to as having the "blues." Oddly enough, pink elephants now more often replace devils in such apparitions.

Winners Both

Both Mayor John V. Kenny, left, and Frank Hague Eggers, his political arch-rival, display victory smiles following the May 12th election of City Commissioners in Jersey City, N. J. Kenny and two of his supporters captured the majority block on the commission which means the mayor. This virtually assures Kenny of being reappointed. Eggers who was swept out of office in 1949 by a full Kenny slate, is expected to dispute the election results. As it is, he and one supporter were elected to the five-man commission. Eggers is a nephew of Frank Hague, who bossed Jersey City politics for many years.

Republicans . . .

tailed estimates of prospects for balancing the budget.

The administration reportedly has been considering asking for an extension of the excess profits tax to help ease an expected budget deficit in the year beginning July 1.

Against Extension

GOP members of the Ways and Means Committee reviewed this situation privately at a recent meeting, several of them reported today, and reaffirmed a decision to line up unanimously against any extension of the levy.

The committee of 15 Republicans and 10 Democrats originates all tax bills in Congress. The excess profits tax, now bringing in an estimated 2½ billion dollars a year, expires automatically on June 30 unless extended by Congress.

The GOP committee members said similar strong opposition awaits any proposal to raise regular corporation income taxes as a substitute for the excess profits tax—another idea reported under study at the Treasury.

However, Sen. George (D-Ga.) a veteran member of the Senate Finance Committee, said today he thinks the Treasury has decided against asking for a corporation tax hike.

Other congressmen who have talked over tax prospects with Treasury officials recently said the administration appeared to be taking soundings on several possibilities. So far as they know, these lawmakers added, no firm decisions have been made.

Reed, asked about prospects for considering administration tax proposals, said in an interview: "I shall be too busy to take those up, until I get these other things taken care of."

By "other things" he referred to hearings on reciprocal trade, now in progress, on customs simplification and tax code revision.

Fined for Seeking Duel

Frankfurt, Germany, May 14 (AP)—Blodell Groseclose, of Julianetta, Ida., was fined $500 today for challenging a U. S. Army captain to a pistol duel over a German woman. Groseclose, 39-year-old ex-soldier and army historian, told the American judge, "thank you for your fairness." But his lawyer said he would appeal because under the ancient German law by which Groseclose was tried, a duel challenge can only be punished by "honorable" confinement in a fortress.

Sees Project License

Washington, May 14 (AP)—Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) predicts New York will have a license to develop St. Lawrence river power "within a matter of weeks." And, the senator said yesterday, all of northern New York and New England would feel the benefits of the hydroelectric project. A power commission examiner recommended Tuesday that New York state be granted a license to join the Canadian province of Ontario in the 600-million-dollar development.

The flowers in the Presbyterian Church Sunday were in memory of Mrs. Joyce Boyce Palmer given by members of her family. Another of the eight beautiful bouquets was from the garden of the late A. W. Williams, given by the Masonic Lodge.

The moving of the house of Louis E. Smith from the Milton road to a new foundation off Tillson avenue was begun Friday. Many days were required to get the house up from its former location and on eight big wheels. Four trees were sacrificed in order to get it on the street, power lines had to be cut, lights at the end of long arms drawn up to the pole. In a few minutes it was down half way around the Bridge Circle and in the turn into Tillson avenue it got into soft earth. The house remained there until Monday when it took all day to get it to its permanent site. Another tree had to be cut down and branches off others.

The three-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Christensen received the rite of baptism Sunday morning in the Presbyterian Church by Rev. Horace Hillery. He was given the name of Eric Carl.

John Chadwick who was patient at Vassar Hospital for a week has recovered sufficiently to return to the Jennings Nursing Home.

A tour of the apple orchards by Myron Hazen with comments by Mr. Hazen on the cultivation and care and the various varieties grown formed the educational entertainment feature of the meeting of Chapter A, PEO, Thursday afternoon at the Hazen home. The trees were in full blossom and were a beautiful sight. There were 22 members attending and on their return to the home were treated to refreshments at the ice cream bar. The state convention is held this week at the Henry Hudson Hotel with Chapter A president, Mrs. E. L. Dalby, and Miss Lula E. Clarke attending as delegates. Mrs. Harold A. Lent, state organizer also attends.

About 50 young people, with their librarians, attended the library club conference held in the Central School Saturday. Representatives from Ellenville, Middletown, Kerhonkson and Wallkill registered at the door and were guided through the school building by members of the local club. The president of the Highland club, Roger Fox, presided at the morning session and presented a corsage to Miss Ethel Haines, librarian and sponsor of the club, in appreciation of her work in arranging the conference.

William H. Yates, principal, welcomed the visitors, as did Betty Ronk, club member, and Miss Haines. The principal speaker was Mario Ruggeri, teacher in the local school, who spoke most wittily on Books as Good Friends. This was followed by a period of reports from each school on important features of club work and a discussion of library problems in which the students took part with enthusiasm. Lunch, prepared under the supervision of Miss Ann McPhail of the homemaking department, was served in the cafeteria. The afternoon program consisted of a song by Betty Jane Casper and Shirley Altizio, humorous readings by Jean Scott and Catherine Fox, twirling by Myrtle Conklin and Rosemarie Bordi and by group singnig.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Mackey and Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Campbell have returned from a motor trip to Texas. While there they spent some time in San Angelo which has since been struck by a tornado.

Prices Skyrocket

Hanoi, Indochina, May 14 (AP)—The cost of goods has skyrocketed 100 to 200 per cent in this headquarters city of the French Union forces in the wake of France's devaluation of the piaster. Local merchants—Vietnamese, Chinese, Indian and French — are openly violating a Vietnamese government order forbidding increases from the May 9 level. That was 48 hours before France slashed the exchange rate from 17 francs to the piaster to 10 francs. Traders who made fortunes exchanging piasters for francs and building up huge franc accounts now appear determined to keep on getting richer by boosting prices here.

Rule Helps Beat Charge

Chicopee, Mass., May 14 (AP)—A slide rule and a mathematics formula helped win a speeding charge acquital in district court yesterday for M/Sgt. Henry J. Vance, an air force flight engineer. Vance took out a slide rule and told Judge Daniel Keyes that by his calculations the police cruiser would have had to go 109 miles an hour to catch up to him in the distance specified by the arresting officer. Vance said: "Allowing 15 seconds for the officer to make a decision and accelerate his machine, he'd have had to do 109 miles an hour and I don't think his cruiser will go that fast."

Fine New Team

Washington, May 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the setting up of a new top military command with Adm. Arthur Radford as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff means nothing except that a fine new team is taking over. As for some interpretations that the change means a shift in emphasis from Europe to Asia—Radford now commands the Pacific Fleet—Eisenhower told a news conference he sees nothing in this argument of Europe versus Asia. We must think globally today, he said, or the thinking is bound to go wrong.

Covered Bridges Fade

Hartford, Conn. (AP)—Covered bridges once dotted the Nutmeg landscape but today there are only three remaining. One is the Comstock Bridge of the boundary line of the townships of East Hampton and Colchester, Conn. The other two are Bull's Bridge in Kent, and the West Cornwall Bridge in Cornwall. Comstock is no longer used for traffic but is preserved on its original site as a museum.

Locked In

Kathleen Nelson, one-year-old, peers quizzically from the family auto in Long Beach, Calif., while her frantic mother, Mrs. R. L. Nelson and police officer L. W. Hyatt try to open the doors, locked from the inside. Hyatt finally smashed windows with the butt of his revolver to free Kathleen. Mrs. Nelson had closed the car doors with the keys inside.

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 14 (AP)—Railroads led a moderate advance today in the stock market. The rails were active and up from small fractions to between 1 and 2 points. Prices throughout the rest of the list usually were up less than a point. Losses were small.

Southern Railway displayed the best gains in the railroad group. The company reported a gross income for the year to May 7 of 132 million dollars as against 126 million a year ago for the same period.

United Aircraft was a standout in its division after reporting first quarter earnings equal to $1.75 as compared with $1.07 a year ago.

Motors were rather active at times at steady prices. Other major groups were steady to higher, most with some stocks showing minus signs from time to time.

Higher stocks included New York Central, Chesapeake & Ohio, Texas Co., Paramount Pictures, American Telephone, Anaconda Copper, Homestake Mining, du Pont, Westinghouse Electric, General Electric, Decca Records, Nesco, Panhandle Petroleum, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, General Motors, and Boeing.

Ulster Will Receive $112,507 in State Aid

Ulster county will receive a check for $112,507.63 as its share of state per capita assistance to cities, towns and villages, it was announced today by State Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern.

The payment of $22,748,628.96 is the first quarterly installment to be paid in the state's 1953-54 fiscal year. Of this amount New York city received $13,294,140.18. A total of $90,994,531.95 will be distributed during the year.

The checks have been mailed to the fiscal officers of the state's 62 cities, 549 villages and 932 towns.

This type of aid is allocated to local units of government on a per capita basis as determined by the 1950 federal census. Each city receives annually the sum of $6.75 times the amount of its population; towns $3.55 for each inhabitant and villages $3 for each inhabitant.

Reds Reject . . .

the allies would release them outright. The Red plan would leave their fate to a high-level, post-armistice conference.

The UN command carefully weeded out of the Reds' May 7 proposal any provision that could force prisoners home against their will and suggested that India be the only nation on the commission to supply troops.

At Thursday's hour and 34-minute session, both sides hurled bitter charges.

North Korean Gen. Mam Il called the Allied plan "unreasonable and absurd" and said it was simply a "disguise" to hold prisoners forcibly.

Harrison defended the Allied counter-proposal, recounting the negotiations since they were renewed April 26 after being broken off last fall.

He said the main issue is still the question of releasing all prisoners immediately after an armistice or leaving their fate hanging for the political conference to decide.

Harrison said the Red truce delegation is simply the "voice" of its governments and such a conference with these governments would be unlikely to agree if the negotiators themselves could not.

The Allies have insisted that the Red plan would give the prisoners a choice of only forced repatriation or indefinite imprisonment.

New York, May 14 (AP)—John E. Gleason, former city employe accused of blocking a probe into who succeeded James J. Moran as boss of a fire department shakedown racket, was sentenced to 3½ to 7 years in prison today for perjury. "You have elected to set yourself up as a roadblock in a very important investigation," General Sessions Judge John A. Mullen said in imposing sentence.

Winners Both

Both Mayor John V. Kenny, left, and Frank Hague Eggers, his political arch-rival, display victory smiles following the May 12th election of City Commissioners in Jersey City, N. J. Kenny and two of his supporters captured the majority block on the commission which means the mayor. This virtually assures Kenny of being reappointed. Eggers who was swept out of office in 1949 by a full Kenny slate, is expected to dispute the election results. As it is, he and one supporter were elected to the five-man commission. Eggers is a nephew of Frank Hague, who bossed Jersey City politics for many years.

Republicans . . .

tailed estimates of prospects for balancing the budget.

The administration reportedly has been considering asking for an extension of the excess profits tax to help ease an expected budget deficit in the year beginning July 1.

Against Extension

GOP members of the Ways and Means Committee reviewed this situation privately at a recent meeting, several of them reported today, and reaffirmed a decision to line up unanimously against any extension of the levy.

The committee of 15 Republicans and 10 Democrats originates all tax bills in Congress. The excess profits tax, now bringing in an estimated 2½ billion dollars a year, expires automatically on June 30 unless extended by Congress.

The GOP committee members said similar strong opposition awaits any proposal to raise regular corporation income taxes as a substitute for the excess profits tax—another idea reported under study at the Treasury.

However, Sen. George (D-Ga.) a veteran member of the Senate Finance Committee, said today he thinks the Treasury has decided against asking for a corporation tax hike.

Other congressmen who have talked over tax prospects with Treasury officials recently said the administration appeared to be taking soundings on several possibilities. So far as they know, these lawmakers added, no firm decisions have been made.

Reed, asked about prospects for considering administration tax proposals, said in an interview: "I shall be too busy to take those up, until I get these other things taken care of."

By "other things" he referred to hearings on reciprocal trade, now in progress, on customs simplification and tax code revision.

Fined for Seeking Duel

Frankfurt, Germany, May 14 (AP)—Blodell Groseclose, of Juliaetta, Ida., was fined $500 today for challenging a U. S. Army captain to a pistol duel over a German woman. Groseclose, 39-year-old ex-soldier and army historian, told the American judge, "thank you for your fairness." But his lawyer said he would appeal because under the ancient German law by which Groseclose was tried, a duel challenge can only be punished by "honorable" confinement in a fortress.

Sees Project License

Washington, May 14 (AP)—Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) predicts New York will have a license to develop St. Lawrence river power "within a matter of weeks." And, the senator said yesterday, all of northern New York and New England would feel the benefits of the hydroelectric project. A power commission examiner recommended Tuesday that New York state be granted a license to join the Canadian province of Ontario in the 600-million-dollar development.

Youngdahl ruled out the four perjury charges in a decision May 2.

Red Hostage System

Vienna (AP)—The Hungarian government is making sure that its diplomats abroad don't go over to the West. Western sources in Vienna report Hungarian diplomats must leave at least one child in a special school for the sons and daughters of foreign service personnel. The children are not allowed to leave the institute even on vacation while their parents are in foreign lands, the source said.

They include hand braided rugs, work bags with designs in colors on toweling, a table decoration for Christmas of greens, candy canes, red ribbons and candle, a copper tray with design and monogram and a sewing cabinet that opens like a screen. It is fitted with shelves and pockets for thread and sewing needs in general. The local unit is in need of a leader to be able to carry on a profitable work that many have enjoyed.

The moving of the house of Louis E. Smith from the Milton road to a new foundation off Tillson avenue was begun Friday. Many days were required to get the house up from its former location and on eight big wheels. Four trees were sacrificed in order to get it on the street, power lines had to be cut, lights at the end of long arms drawn up to the pole. In a few minutes it was down half way around the Bridge Circle and in the turn into Tillson avenue it got into soft earth. The house remained there until Monday when it took all day to get it to its permanent site. Another tree had to be cut down and branches off others.

Prices Skyrocket

Hanoi, Indochina, May 14 (AP)—The cost of goods has skyrocketed 100 to 200 per cent in this headquarters city of the French Union forces in the wake of France's devaluation of the piaster. Local merchants—Vietnamese, Chinese, Indian and French — are openly violating a Vietnamese government order forbidding increases from the May 9 level. That was 48 hours before France slashed the exchange rate from 17 francs to the piaster to 10 francs. Traders who made fortunes exchanging piasters for francs and building up huge franc accounts now appear determined to keep on getting richer by boosting prices here.

Rule Helps Beat Charge

Chicopee, Mass., May 14 (AP)—A slide rule and a mathematics formula helped win a speeding charge acquital in district court yesterday for M/Sgt. Henry J. Vance, an air force flight engineer. Vance took out a slide rule and told Judge Daniel Keyes that by his calculations the police cruiser would have had to go 109 miles an hour to catch up to him in the distance specified by the arresting officer. Vance said: "Allowing 15 seconds for the officer to make a decision and accelerate his machine, he'd have had to do 109 miles an hour and I don't think his cruiser will go that fast."

Fine New Team

Washington, May 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the setting up of a new top military command with Adm. Arthur Radford as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff means nothing except that a fine new team is taking over. As for some interpretations that the change means a shift in emphasis from Europe to Asia—Radford now commands the Pacific Fleet—Eisenhower told a news conference he sees nothing in this argument of Europe versus Asia. We must think globally today, he said, or the thinking is bound to go wrong.

Comstock is no longer used for traffic but is preserved on its original site as a museum.

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 14 (AP)—Railroads led a moderate advance today in the stock market. The rails were active and up from small fractions to between 1 and 2 points. Prices throughout the rest of the list usually were up less than a point. Losses were small.

Southern Railway displayed the best gains in the railroad group. The company reported a gross income for the year to May 7 of 132 million dollars as against 126 million a year ago for the same period.

United Aircraft was a standout in its division after reporting first quarter earnings equal to $1.75 as compared with $1.07 a year ago.

Motors were rather active at times at steady prices. Other major groups were steady to higher, most with some stocks showing minus signs from time to time.

Higher stocks included New York Central, Chesapeake & Ohio, Texas Co., Paramount Pictures, American Telephone, Anaconda Copper, Homestake Mining, du Pont, Westinghouse Electric, General Electric, Decca Records, Nesco, Panhandle Petroleum, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, General Motors, and Boeing.

Ulster Will Receive $112,507 in State Aid

Ulster county will receive a check for $112,507.63 as its share of state per capita assistance to cities, towns and villages, it was announced today by State Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern.

The payment of $22,748,628.96 is the first quarterly installment to be paid in the state's 1953-54 fiscal year. Of this amount New York city received $13,294,140.18. A total of $90,994,531.95 will be distributed during the year.

The checks have been mailed to the fiscal officers of the state's 62 cities, 549 villages and 932 towns.

This type of aid is allocated to local units of government on a per capita basis as determined by the 1950 federal census. Each city receives annually the sum of $6.75 times the amount of its population; towns $3.55 for each inhabitant and villages $3 for each inhabitant.

Reds Reject . . .

the allies would release them outright. The Red plan would leave their fate to a high-level, post-armistice conference.

The UN command carefully weeded out of the Reds' May 7 proposal any provision that could force prisoners home against their will and suggested that India be the only nation on the commission to supply troops.

At Thursday's hour and 34-minute session, both sides hurled bitter charges.

North Korean Gen. Mam Il called the Allied plan "unreasonable and absurd" and said it was simply a "disguise" to hold prisoners forcibly.

Harrison defended the Allied counter-proposal, recounting the negotiations since they were renewed April 26 after being broken off last fall.

He said the main issue is still the question of releasing all prisoners immediately after an armistice or leaving their fate hanging for the political conference to decide.

Harrison said the Red truce delegation is simply the "voice" of its governments and such a conference with these governments would be unlikely to agree if the negotiators themselves could not.

The Allies have insisted that the Red plan would give the prisoners a choice of only forced repatriation or indefinite imprisonment.

Gleason Is Sentenced

New York, May 14 (AP)—John E. Gleason, former city employe accused of blocking a probe into who succeeded James J. Moran as boss of a fire department shakedown racket, was sentenced to 3½ to 7 years in prison today for perjury. "You have elected to set yourself up as a roadblock in a very important investigation," General Sessions Judge John A. Mullen said in imposing sentence.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Many folks ask, "Do you like going through old newspapers?" I sure do, wish I had more time for it. As you keep turning over page after page of an old local newspaper such interesting news items and bits of gossip turn up, that you keep saying to yourself "What do you know? Who would believe it." Some items are impossible to use because of their length and cannot be shortened without loss of information. I like best the advertisements of long ago. Right now before me I have the Kingston Argus and Ulster Republican, a newspaper printed in 1860s. This one is dated Wednesday morning, May 22, 1861. This is proof that the Bernstein family came here some 100 years ago, as the following advertisement proves it: "Gentlemen's clothing, prices greatly reduced. Isaac Bernstein's, fashionable clothing emporium, 86 North Front street, Kingston, N. Y. The proprietor has just received the largest stock and the best quality of merchandise ever offered in this locality, consisting of French, English and American broadcloths and cassimers. These will be made up in the neatest and most fashionable styles."

The Singer Sewing Machine Co. may be interested in the following: That in the above advertisement Isaac Bernstein was also the agent back in 1861 of Singer's sewing machines in Kingston. The prices ranged from $40 to $125. The advertisement informed the public that the machine was useful "for tailors, families, and all manufacturing purposes, these machines are unequalled. They are more durable, capable of doing a greater variety of work, and of earning more money than any machines on the market."

Another advertisement of that date informed the reading public that "Steinway & Sons comes to Kingston. Celebrated pianos have now made their most welcome appearance in the beautiful village of Kingston and will be constantly kept on hand at the Temperance House kept by John H. Schryver, who will act as agent for the sale of the above Steinways. Every one of which will be of the most choice selection and sold on the most favorable terms. Second hand pianos taken in exchange. Time given on good and approved paper. Every piano fully warranted, and kept in tune by the proprietor, I. T. Hammick." They did not say where he was located, so no doubt he was a popular tradesman of the village of Kingston. Who still owns one of these old Steinways?

Another item of interest to folks on Wurts street. "The death of John Wurts. This gentleman who held the position of president of the D & H Canal Co., for 27 years, and formerly resided in Rondout died at Rome on the 23rd ult, whither he had gone for the improvement of his health." In those days the death notices were a line or two like the above and on important people of the community. Once in a while in the social news of the towns details were given.

From the D & H Canal History of 1817: "William and Maurice Wurts of Philadelphia, two enterprising merchants who purchased a basketful of 'shiny stones' and started buying land at 50 cents to $3 an acre in and around Carbondale." We were to know the "shiny stones" as coal in later years.

It is believed that pheasants were first taken to England by the Romans.

Versatile Flavor Booster

New Hot Dog Relish on Market

In case you haven't tried it, we suggest you pick up a jar of that new hot dog relish at your local food market. A blend of tangy yellow mustard and crisp, chopped sweet pickle, it's one of the most versatile flavor-boosters we've discovered in a long time.

As its name suggests, its primary use is as a granish for hot dogs and hamburgers. But it's equally tempting on sandwiches of steak or ham, tongue or corned beef, toasted cheese, egg or bologna.

Or for a special family treat, try hot and hearty beanburgers. Oven-baked beans—the kind you buy in cans—are enlivened with minced onions and hot dog relish, spread on a bun, topped with a slice of yellow cheese and broiled till bubbling hot.

Beanburgers

1 16-ounce can Heinz oven-baked beans in tomato sauce.
3 tablespoons chopped onions.
2 tablespoons Heinz Hot Dog Relish.
½ teaspoon salt.
Dash pepper.
6 round sandwich buns, split.
6 slices process sharp cheddar cheese.

Heat broiler. Combine first five ingredients. Arrange bottom half of buns on broiler pan and toast; spoon approximately ¼ cup bean mixture on each bun. Place under broiler unit as far from heat as possible to keep buns from burning. Broil 5 minutes or until beans are hot. Place a slice of cheese on top of each sandwich; continue to broil until cheese melts. Toast top of bun. Serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

Musk oxen once ranged through North Africa and Europe.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Many folks ask, "Do you like going through old newspapers?" I sure do, wish I had more time for it. As you keep turning over page after page of an old local newspaper such interesting news items and bits of gossip turn up, that you keep saying to yourself "What do you know? Who would believe it." Some items are impossible to use because of their length and cannot be shortened without loss of information. I like best the advertisements of long ago. Right now before me I have the Kingston Argus and Ulster Republican, a newspaper printed in 1860s. This one is dated Wednesday morning, May 22, 1861. This is proof that the Bernstein family came here some 100 years ago, as the following advertisement proves it: "Gentlemen's clothing, prices greatly reduced. Isaac Bernstein's, fashionable clothing emporium, 86 North Front street, Kingston, N. Y. The proprietor has just received the largest stock and the best quality of merchandise ever offered in this locality, consisting of French, English and American broadcloths and cassimers. These will be made up in the neatest and most fashionable styles."

The Singer Sewing Machine Co. may be interested in the following: That in the above advertisement Isaac Bernstein was also the agent back in 1861 of Singer's sewing machines in Kingston. The prices ranged from $40 to $125. The advertisement informed the public that the machine was useful "for tailors, families, and all manufacturing purposes, these machines are unequalled. They are more durable, capable of doing a greater variety of work, and of earning more money than any machines on the market."

Another advertisement of that date informed the reading public that "Steinway & Sons comes to Kingston. Celebrated pianos have now made their most welcome appearance in the beautiful village of Kingston and will be constantly kept on hand at the Temperance House kept by John H. Schryver, who will act as agent for the sale of the above Steinways. Every one of which will be of the most choice selection and sold on the most favorable terms. Second hand pianos taken in exchange. Time given on good and approved paper. Every piano fully warranted, and kept in tune by the proprietor, I. T. Hammick." They did not say where he was located, so no doubt he was a popular tradesman of the village of Kingston. Who still owns one of these old Steinways?

Another item of interest to folks on Wurts street. "The death of John Wurts. This gentleman who held the position of president of the D & H Canal Co., for 27 years, and formerly resided in Rondout died at Rome on the 23rd ult, whither he had gone for the improvement of his health." In those days the death notices were a line or two like the above and on important people of the community. Once in a while in the social news of the towns details were given.

From the D & H Canal History of 1817: "William and Maurice Wurts of Philadelphia, two enterprising merchants who purchased a basketful of 'shiny stones' and started buying land at 50 cents to $3 an acre in and around Carbondale." We were to know the "shiny stones" as coal in later years.

Health for All

"Never Touch It"

"I like lobster, but lobster doesn't like me."

You have heard that statement, or similar ones. Maybe you have laughed at it. But allergy is no joke. Doctors take it seriously. Allergic diseases are seldom fatal, but the symptoms are always distressing. Sometimes there is so much discomfort that work, sleep, appetite, and recreation are interfered with and general health suffers.

Allergy is sensitivity, or hypersensitivity, to substances which are harmless to most people. About one person in ten is allergic to something. The substances that cause allergy are called allergens, and there are hundreds, even thousands of possibilities; pollens, house dust, furs, various foods, feathers, cosmetics, drugs, and even heat, cold and sunlight. The most common allergic diseases are hay fever, asthma, skin disorders like hives, and stomach and intestinal disturbances.

These diseases are not imaginary. If you have allergic symptoms, you should get medical advice both for immediate relief and future protection. The doctor can make tests to discover the allergens which are causing trouble. Sometimes this is easy, but frequently it requires great patience.

Once the causes are discovered, you can learn to avoid the troublemakers as much as possible. Drugs may be prescribed to ease the symptoms. In some cases injections, medicines, and vaccines are given to desensitize the patient. You may need help in ironing out emotional conflicts such as worry, fear, or anger which have a strong influence on allergic disorders. With complete cooperation with your doctor, you will be able to save yourself from years of unnecessary suffering and disability.

Constantinople fell to the Turks in 1453 after it had been ruled by Christians for 1,000 years and after its walls had been pounded by cannon which were new weapons in those days for five weeks.

Health for All

"Never Touch It"

"I like lobster, but lobster doesn't like me."

You have heard that statement, or similar ones. Maybe you have laughed at it. But allergy is no joke. Doctors take it seriously. Allergic diseases are seldom fatal, but the symptoms are always distressing. Sometimes there is so much discomfort that work, sleep, appetite, and recreation are interfered with and general health suffers.

Allergy is sensitivity, or hypersensitivity, to substances which are harmless to most people. About one person in ten is allergic to something. The substances that cause allergy are called allergens, and there are hundreds, even thousands of possibilities; pollens, house dust, furs, various foods, feathers, cosmetics, drugs, and even heat, cold and sunlight. The most common allergic diseases are hay fever, asthma, skin disorders like hives, and stomach and intestinal disturbances.

These diseases are not imaginary. If you have allergic symptoms, you should get medical advice both for immediate relief and future protection. The doctor can make tests to discover the allergens which are causing trouble. Sometimes this is easy, but frequently it requires great patience.

Once the causes are discovered, you can learn to avoid the troublemakers as much as possible. Drugs may be prescribed to ease the symptoms. In some cases injections, medicines, and vaccines are given to desensitize the patient. You may need help in ironing out emotional conflicts such as worry, fear, or anger which have a strong influence on allergic disorders. With complete cooperation with your doctor, you will be able to save yourself from years of unnecessary suffering and disability.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Eskin Recounts Trip to Mexico

Woodstock, May 13 — Sam Eskin, folk singer, returned last week to his home here from Mexico where he did extensive research. Although he started out last winter to make a trip to Haiti, he wound up in Mexico and while in Mexico City met a French motion picture director, Serge del Parat. He was in the country to make a documentary film on the Lacadon Indians, in the Mayan country.

Eskin traveled by car 800 miles south of Mexico City to San Crisdodal de Casas, from which he chartered a plane, journeying with the French director, for 100 miles. The next 17 miles was by mule pack to the Lacadon country. The party passed through intense jungle, populated with parrots and monkeys, sometimes so dense that they could not sit upright on the mules.

At the Lacadon encampment, Eskin made two and a half hours of recordings of the music made by the Indians. Eskin brought home as souvenirs from the country large carved oval wash tubs, guitars, bows and arrows, flutes and tobacco for making cigars.

Eskin reported that the Lacadon country is mountainous and in the cleared sections excellent for raising tobacco. Mohagany wood is the chief commodity of the area, and has to be floated 1,200 miles down river to the Atlantic ocean for transport.

The Lacadon people are not addicted to community life, Eskin discovered. They are polygamous, and he encountered one family of a man with six wives, the oldest of which was 30 years of age and the youngest 10. A family usually selects a location near water, builds a shed of sticks and thatched roof, the walls of which are tied together. Their economic life is simple, selling tobacco for a living to customers who are few and far between. Pineapples, corn or maize are raised for the staples.

According to Eskin, the Mayan culture archeologically was as important as that of Rome, Greece and Egypt, 2,000 years ago, and the Lacadon is the one Indian tribe which, so far as he knows, has never been diluted with other races.

Many Discomforts

Discomforts, said Eskin, so far as animal life is concerned are many in the area. In the morning it is necessary to shake the scorpions out of your boots, and there is always the hazard of the wild leopard, snakes and poisonous reptiles. However, the country is inhabited by the guardian king snake which lives on the other snakes.

The French director, while Eskin made his recordings, was busy making his film and shot 7,000 feet of 35 mm film. Eskin's recordings will become a part of his collection at the Library of Congress in Washington, D. C. Among them were Indian songs, religious ceremonies, animal sounds and the Mayan language. The recordings also will be used in conjunction with the film.

In appearance, Eskin said, the Mayan Indians are smaller than the average man, but they can walk faster than a mule. Eskin had to run to keep up with them. Musically, they do not use percussion instruments, relying on the flutes, which results in a wistful and nostalgic type of music.

Eskin visited some Mayan ruins which gave indication that for their time, these Indians were an extremely advanced race. He believes that they had a knowledge of astronomy in that they knew the direction of true north. They had a mathematical system, and a characteristic hieroglyph for communication.

In Jungle Four Weeks

He spent a total of four weeks in the jungle, experiencing intense heat during the day and turning to blankets for comfort at night.

These Indians he found were not craft workers, having no aptitude for making rugs, textiles or blankets.

He also traveled to the state of Nachoacan to make recordings of the Tarasion Indians in the town of Eronguariquaro, where he taped drums, songs and flute tunes. He also recorded drums and flutes of the Tzetzal Indians in the same district. These two last tribes mentioned are not as pure-blooded Mayans as the Lacadons.

Some Reforms Made

Although they do not have electricity and other modern conveniences, there has been an attempt on the part of the Mexican government to return some of the land to the Indians and some social reforms have been made. Since the Mexican revolution around 1910 there have been attempted reforms in education and health nursing units have been established. The last two tribes have some craft work, weaving, pottery and basket making.

Eskin reported that his most terrifying experience was hearing a jaguar scream, which he said is a frightful sound. This appeared to be one sound he was not anxious to record.

Home Bureau

Woodstock, May 13—The Woodstock Home Bureau met with the unit from Olive Bridge Tuesday afternoon at the Onteora School in connection with the celebration of home demonstration week. Members of both units, including two small girls who displayed pinafore dresses, modeled gowns which they had made in the course of sewing projects sponsored by the respective units. Miss Therese Kessel, Wittenberg, served as commentator.

Prior to the fashion show Mrs. Messinger gave a talk on Mexico and Miss Everice Parsons spoke on the work of the Home Bureau.

Hostesses were Mrs. Felicia Froot, Miss Therese Kessel and Miss Dorothy Wetti.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, June 9, in the basement of the Dutch Reformed Church at 2 p. m.

Town Board to Meet

Woodstock, May 13—The Woodstock Town Board will meet today at the Town Hall at 7:30 p. m.

Weekly Food Review

(By The Associated Press)

There are signs that chickens will soon join beef on the best buy list in food stores of the country.

The Poultry and Egg National Board reports that wholesalers are bracing themselves to handle the biggest supply of the birds ever brought to market. Within the next few weeks, it says, between 15 and 16 million chickens will be shipped to market every week. And the prospect is that this will go on for weeks to come.

Chickens Are Down

The big supplies are expected to bring lower prices. Actually, frying chickens were down two to four cents in various sections of the country this week.

The poultry and egg board said one reason for the large supply is that a good bird can be produced now in from nine to ten weeks whereas it took as long as 13 weeks to do the job some eight years ago.

The board also noted that egg prices are coming down a bit. Some retail stores knocked two to three cents off the price of a dozen this week.

Eggs High for Season

Nevertheless, egg prices are high for this time of the year, wholesalers said. The continued high demand has puzzled producers, who normally experience a slump in May.

Beef prices continued at the low levels of recent months, with changes either way reported by only a few stores. Among cuts being featured for the weekend were pot roast, chuck roast, corned beef, rib roast and sirloin steak.

Pork chops, which recently soared, settled back in some areas, with price reductions of two to six cents reported. Chain stores said bacon has climbed six cents a pound in the last week.

Lamb Price Increases

Leg of lamb went up four cents a pound in some areas. One meat buyer called leg of lamb prices "still reasonable" but observed that lamb chops were very high. He attributed some of the rise to the fact that lamb is between seasons, with spring lambs coming in and winter lambs going out.

On the best buy list in vegetables were tomatoes, onions, potatoes and asparagus. In the wholesale markets, beets, cabbage, and squash were mentioned as fairly good buys.

California Valencia and navel oranges were also classed as fairly good buys, while Florida orange prices were said to be the lowest in some weeks. Grapefruit was moderately priced.

Veto Powers

The President of the United States may veto any bill, regardless of its character. He may veto both public and private bills, but he cannot veto separate items of bills.

Eskin Recounts Trip to Mexico

Woodstock, May 13 — Sam Eskin, folk singer, returned last week to his home here from Mexico where he did extensive research. Although he started out last winter to make a trip to Haiti, he wound up in Mexico and while in Mexico City met a French motion picture director, Serge del Parat. He was in the country to make a documentary film on the Lacadon Indians, in the Mayan country.

Eskin traveled by car 800 miles south of Mexico City to San Crisdodal de Casas, from which he chartered a plane, journeying with the French director, for 100 miles. The next 17 miles was by mule pack to the Lacadon country. The party passed through intense jungle, populated with parrots and monkeys, sometimes so dense that they could not sit upright on the mules.

At the Lacadon encampment, Eskin made two and a half hours of recordings of the music made by the Indians. Eskin brought home as souvenirs from the country large carved oval wash tubs, guitars, bows and arrows, flutes and tobacco for making cigars.

Eskin reported that the Lacadon country is mountainous and in the cleared sections excellent for raising tobacco. Mohagany wood is the chief commodity of the area, and has to be floated 1,200 miles down river to the Atlantic ocean for transport.

The Lacadon people are not addicted to community life, Eskin discovered. They are polygamous, and he encountered one family of a man with six wives, the oldest of which was 30 years of age and the youngest 10. A family usually selects a location near water, builds a shed of sticks and thatched roof, the walls of which are tied together. Their economic life is simple, selling tobacco for a living to customers who are few and far between. Pineapples, corn or maize are raised for the staples.

According to Eskin, the Mayan culture archeologically was as important as that of Rome, Greece and Egypt, 2,000 years ago, and the Lacadon is the one Indian tribe which, so far as he knows, has never been diluted with other races.

Many Discomforts

Discomforts, said Eskin, so far as animal life is concerned are many in the area. In the morning it is necessary to shake the scorpions out of your boots, and there is always the hazard of the wild leopard, snakes and poisonous reptiles. However, the country is inhabited by the guardian king snake which lives on the other snakes.

The French director, while Eskin made his recordings, was busy making his film and shot 7,000 feet of 35 mm film. Eskin's recordings will become a part of his collection at the Library of Congress in Washington, D. C. Among them were Indian songs, religious ceremonies, animal sounds and the Mayan language. The recordings also will be used in conjunction with the film.

In appearance, Eskin said, the Mayan Indians are smaller than the average man, but they can walk faster than a mule. Eskin had to run to keep up with them. Musically, they do not use percussion instruments, relying on the flutes, which results in a wistful and nostalgic type of music.

Eskin visited some Mayan ruins which gave indication that for their time, these Indians were an extremely advanced race. He believes that they had a knowledge of astronomy in that they knew the direction of true north. They had a mathematical system, and a characteristic hieroglyph for communication.

In Jungle Four Weeks

He spent a total of four weeks in the jungle, experiencing intense heat during the day and turning to blankets for comfort at night.

These Indians he found were not craft workers, having no aptitude for making rugs, textiles or blankets.

He also traveled to the state of Nachoacan to make recordings of the Tarasion Indians in the town of Eronguariquaro, where he taped drums, songs and flute tunes. He also recorded drums and flutes of the Tzetzal Indians in the same district. These two last tribes mentioned are not as pure-blooded Mayans as the Lacadons.

Some Reforms Made

Although they do not have electricity and other modern conveniences, there has been an attempt on the part of the Mexican government to return some of the land to the Indians and some social reforms have been made. Since the Mexican revolution around 1910 there have been attempted reforms in education and health nursing units have been established. The last two tribes have some craft work, weaving, pottery and basket making.

Eskin reported that his most terrifying experience was hearing a jaguar scream, which he said is a frightful sound. This appeared to be one sound he was not anxious to record.

Home Bureau

Woodstock, May 13—The Woodstock Home Bureau met with the unit from Olive Bridge Tuesday afternoon at the Onteora School in connection with the celebration of home demonstration week. Members of both units, including two small girls who displayed pinafore dresses, modeled gowns which they had made in the course of sewing projects sponsored by the respective units. Miss Therese Kessel, Wittenberg, served as commentator.

Prior to the fashion show Mrs. Messinger gave a talk on Mexico and Miss Everice Parsons spoke on the work of the Home Bureau.

Hostesses were Mrs. Felicia Froot, Miss Therese Kessel and Miss Dorothy Wetti.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, June 9, in the basement of the Dutch Reformed Church at 2 p. m.

Weekly Food Review

(By The Associated Press)

There are signs that chickens will soon join beef on the best buy list in food stores of the country.

The Poultry and Egg National Board reports that wholesalers are bracing themselves to handle the biggest supply of the birds ever brought to market. Within the next few weeks, it says, between 15 and 16 million chickens will be shipped to market every week. And the prospect is that this will go on for weeks to come.

Chickens Are Down

The big supplies are expected to bring lower prices. Actually, frying chickens were down two to four cents in various sections of the country this week.

The poultry and egg board said one reason for the large supply is that a good bird can be produced now in from nine to ten weeks whereas it took as long as 13 weeks to do the job some eight years ago.

The board also noted that egg prices are coming down a bit. Some retail stores knocked two to three cents off the price of a dozen this week.

Eggs High for Season

Nevertheless, egg prices are high for this time of the year, wholesalers said. The continued high demand has puzzled producers, who normally experience a slump in May.

Beef prices continued at the low levels of recent months, with changes either way reported by only a few stores. Among cuts being featured for the weekend were pot roast, chuck roast, corned beef, rib roast and sirloin steak.

Pork chops, which recently soared, settled back in some areas, with price reductions of two to six cents reported. Chain stores said bacon has climbed six cents a pound in the last week.

Lamb Price Increases

Leg of lamb went up four cents a pound in some areas. One meat buyer called leg of lamb prices "still reasonable" but observed that lamb chops were very high. He attributed some of the rise to the fact that lamb is between seasons, with spring lambs coming in and winter lambs going out.

On the best buy list in vegetables were tomatoes, onions, potatoes and asparagus. In the wholesale markets, beets, cabbage, and squash were mentioned as fairly good buys.

California Valencia and navel oranges were also classed as fairly good buys, while Florida orange prices were said to be the lowest in some weeks. Grapefruit was moderately priced.

Veto Powers

The President of the United States may veto any bill, regardless of its character. He may veto both public and private bills, but he cannot veto separate items of bills.

Argiro Work Shown, Is Elected Officer

New Paltz, May 14—Larry Argiro is represented at the annual Upper-Hudson exhibition with two works of art. Out of 700 entries 78 were selected by a panel of judges for exhibition. The exhibition may be seen at the gallery in Albany of the Institute of History and Art.

The two paintings shown by Argiro are Waterfront and Andante Number One. Jurists were Thomas Blagden, artist of Lakeville, Conn.; G. Burton Cumming, director of American Federation of Arts, New York; and Donald Smith, director of the Schenectady Museum.

Argiro of the art faculty of the New Paltz State Teachers College was elected vice-president of the New York State Art Teachers Association at the annual convention in Albany last weekend. The convention was attended by 500 members.

According to association procedures, Argiro will become president at the 1954 convention to be held in Rochester next May. There is a possibility that the convention may be held in this area the following year.

Paltz Central Seeks New Classroom Space

New Paltz, May 13—The expected increased enrollment of children in the New Paltz Central School District has forced immediate consideration of finding adequate classroom space for next year.

Built to serve 450, the Campus School is now serving 557. By 1960 the enrollment is expected to be 950. The Parochial School can care for only 150, which means that 800 pupils will have to be cared for in the public schools. If the Campus School is kept at its maximum of 450 that leaves 350 in need of school facilities.

For the fall term the immediate need is for kindergarten and first grade rooms. The board of education is considering renting space in some building in the community until other plans can be worked out. The village board was asked if it would rent the municipal building for these classes but it voted not to do so, feeling that it would not be practical. Facilities were not thought to be adequate and class room furniture would interfere with the regular uses of the municipal building.

A letter from Hermann Cooper of the State Education Department to Dr. Clifford Hoppenstedt, president of the school board, explained the State University policy in the conduct and operation of campus schools. Two classrooms for each grade are maintained for demonstration and practice teaching. Classes needed for each grade level, other than these two, are provided for by local school boards. New Paltz, Geneseo and Potsdam must all take steps to provide buildings to house the elementary population increase within the next year or two. The school district already pays the salaries for teachers beyond the two classes and the cost would be the same regardless of where the classes are held. State financial aid to school districts depends to some extent on a three-year average. It would seem to be advantageous to increase the number of children attending district supporting classes as soon as possible. The college has offered its help with some items such as desks and chairs during the expansion.

The school board will appoint a citizen's advisory committee to study and make recommendations on the problem. The high school is now working at student capacity and will face a similar crowded condition as the large classes move up. The advisory committee will also study this problem and make recommendations.

Annual P-T Leaders Conference Is Held

Vote Recount Begins

Jersey City, N. J., May 14 (AP)—A vote recount began today in which the Frank Hague Eggers forces hope to unseat Mayor John V. Kenny and win control of the city commission. Kenny retained control of three of the five city commission spots in Tuesday's municipal election. Eggers and a member of his slate captured the two other spots. Since the commission picks a mayor from among its members, Kenny appeared certain of being renamed to the post. But the Eggers group won an order yesterday for a recount in an attempt to gain a third commission seat — and put Kenny in the minority.

NEW PALTZ NEWS

By MRS. WILLIAM JAY

Argiro Work Shown, Is Elected Officer

New Paltz, May 14—Larry Argiro is represented at the annual Upper-Hudson exhibition with two works of art. Out of 700 entries 78 were selected by a panel of judges for exhibition. The exhibition may be seen at the gallery in Albany of the Institute of History and Art.

The two paintings shown by Argiro are Waterfront and Andante Number One. Jurists were Thomas Blagden, artist of Lakeville, Conn.; G. Burton Cumming, director of American Federation of Arts, New York; and Donald Smith, director of the Schenectady Museum.

Argiro of the art faculty of the New Paltz State Teachers College was elected vice-president of the New York State Art Teachers Association at the annual convention in Albany last weekend. The convention was attended by 500 members.

According to association procedures, Argiro will become president at the 1954 convention to be held in Rochester next May. There is a possibility that the convention may be held in this area the following year.

Paltz Central Seeks New Classroom Space

New Paltz, May 13—The expected increased enrollment of children in the New Paltz Central School District has forced immediate consideration of finding adequate classroom space for next year.

Built to serve 450, the Campus School is now serving 557. By 1960 the enrollment is expected to be 950. The Parochial School can care for only 150, which means that 800 pupils will have to be cared for in the public schools. If the Campus School is kept at its maximum of 450 that leaves 350 in need of school facilities.

For the fall term the immediate need is for kindergarten and first grade rooms. The board of education is considering renting space in some building in the community until other plans can be worked out. The village board was asked if it would rent the municipal building for these classes but it voted not to do so, feeling that it would not be practical. Facilities were not thought to be adequate and class room furniture would interfere with the regular uses of the municipal building.

A letter from Hermann Cooper of the State Education Department to Dr. Clifford Hoppenstedt, president of the school board, explained the State University policy in the conduct and operation of campus schools. Two classrooms for each grade are maintained for demonstration and practice teaching. Classes needed for each grade level, other than these two, are provided for by local school boards. New Paltz, Geneseo and Potsdam must all take steps to provide buildings to house the elementary population increase within the next year or two. The school district already pays the salaries for teachers beyond the two classes and the cost would be the same regardless of where the classes are held. State financial aid to school districts depends to some extent on a three-year average. It would seem to be advantageous to increase the number of children attending district supporting classes as soon as possible. The college has offered its help with some items such as desks and chairs during the expansion.

The school board will appoint a citizen's advisory committee to study and make recommendations on the problem. The high school is now working at student capacity and will face a similar crowded condition as the large classes move up. The advisory committee will also study this problem and make recommendations.

Annual P-T Leaders Conference Is Held

New Paltz, May 13—The 27th annual institute for parent-teacher leaders was held at Cornell University April 27-30. The theme of the conference was Know-How. Mrs. Eugene Link attended the institute.

On Tuesday morning a skit was presented called, Under the P-TA Umbrella. A movie on how to conduct a meeting and workshops was held. P-TA Procedures was another program given for new presidents and leaders. Many educational speakers were heard.

Workshops on Learning to Work Together, more films and consultations were scheduled to aid those who have the responsibility for leadership. Mrs. Ernst Spencer the N. Y. State Congress vice-president was one of the leaders of the institute. Mrs. Spencer spoke to the planning board of the New Paltz PFO at its last meeting.

Reports on the student loan fund, Jenkins memorial scholarship fund and the national headquarter fund were given. A New Paltz senior, Barbara Misner, has been named as one of the finalists for the Jenkins memorial scholarship fund. The awards are based on scholarship, personal qualities and principal's recommendation and personal interview. Miss Misner is a member of the National Honor Society.

Mrs. Eugene Link will attend the Central Hudson District meeting of the New York Congress of Parents and Teachers, Inc., May 14, at Grahamsville. This is the spring conference. She will speak in one of the workshop groups on Parent Education, in the morning and will speak in the afternoon on the conference theme. The theme of the conference is Advancing Community Education. Her topic will be How Parents Can Help.

Susan Angell Hurt When Swing Breaks

New Paltz, May 13—Susan Angell, 12, sustained serious injuries last Wednesday at play in her backyard when a swing collapsed. An emergency throat operation was necessary when Susan arrived at Vassar Brothers Hospital due to blocking of the throat. Her many friends will be glad to hear that Susan is improving and has been removed from the critical list. She is a sixth grade pupil at the Campus School, the daughter of Acting President and Mrs. George Angell.

Five Paltz Women Attend NY Institute

New Paltz, May 13—Five New Paltz women attended A Day of Political Education held at the Hotel Commodore in New York May 5. It was sponsored by the New York State Democratic Committee, Women's Division. Among the speakers heard were Averill Harriman, who spoke on the Four Point Program in Asia, and Dr. Lester Granger who spoke on Foreign Affairs. The ladies attending the meeting were Mrs. John Glancy, Jr., Mrs. Willard Hogan, Mrs. Albert Kerr, Mrs. Robert Swain and Mrs. Leland Walthery.

Group 3 will meet with Mrs. Ralph Martin at 8 p. m., at which time the Rev. John Follette will speak on India. Group 4 will meet at 2:30 p. m. with Mrs. Herman Glanz. Dr. Russell will be the speaker.

To Hold Breakfast

New Paltz, May 13—The Men's Communion breakfast will be held at 8 o'clock at the Reformed Church this Sunday, May 17. The speaker W. L. L. Peltz of Albany will be heard in the place of the late Senator Wadlin who was the scheduled speaker. Tickets are limited and reservations must be in by Wednesday. Jay Le Fevre is ticket chairman. Peltz is a distinguished lawyer and bank president of Albany. His grandfather was a minister to the New Paltz Reformed Church during the Civil War.

Vote Recount Begins

Jersey City, N. J., May 14 (AP)—A vote recount began today in which the Frank Hague Eggers forces hope to unseat Mayor John V. Kenny and win control of the city commission. Kenny retained control of three of the five city commission spots in Tuesday's municipal election. Eggers and a member of his slate captured the two other spots. Since the commission picks a mayor from among its members, Kenny appeared certain of being renamed to the post. But the Eggers group won an order yesterday for a recount in an attempt to gain a third commission seat—and put Kenny in the minority.

Godfrey Faces Knife

Boston, May 14 (AP)—Radio-television star Arthur Godfrey will undergo surgery "within a few days" to correct hip injuries suffered in an automobile accident 22 years ago, it was announced last night. The 49-year-old Godfrey suffered 27 fractures when his car collided with a truck in Washington, D. C., in 1931 and he has been in almost constant pain since then. The TV star greeted newsmen yesterday in his $455-a-week hospital suite. It has an adjoining room for his wife, Mrs. Mary Ann Godfrey, who is expected to join him by tomorrow.

Woman, 106, Dies

Buffalo, May 14 (AP)—Mrs. Eliza J. Haller, 106, died yesterday. She had been active in religious and cultural life in Buffalo for nearly a century.

Most people think of the end play as a weapon that you use to help you make a slam or some other very high contract. Howard Woolworth, famous Buffalo bridge expert, demonstrated the truth of this matter recently by executing an end play to make a low contract of three diamonds.

West opened the four of clubs (many experts now lead low from any three cards in partner's bid spit), and East won with the king of clubs. East feared an end play and tried to get his partner out of it by returning a spade at once.

Dummy won the second trick with the king of spades and returned a club for declarer to ruff. Declarer drew trumps with the ace and king, entered dummy with the ten of diamonds, and ruffed dummy's last club in his own hand.

West had discarded a spade on the third round of trumps, so Woolworth cashed the ace of spades and put West in with a third round of spades. West could cash the ten of spades, but Woolworth merely discarded a low heart and waited for West to lead the hearts and thus give him a trick with the king of hearts.

It would have done West no good to discard a heart instead of a spade on the third round of trumps. If West had done so, declarer would have led hearts before cashing the ace of spades. West would be able to take two heart tricks but would then have to lead spades up to the ace-jack.

Incidentally, you may wonder why declarer didn't lead a heart from the dummy towards his king in the hope of finding the ace in the East hand. That's an easy one to answer. The first trick indicated that East held a long club suit headed by the ace and king. Since East had passed originally he couldn't have the ace of hearts as well. Woolworth knew he had to execute an end play to make a trick with his king of hearts.

Coach House Players Name Chairmen for Mr. Barry's Etchings

Chairmen of committees have been appointed for Mr. Barry's Etchings, a sprightly comedy, which will be presented by the Coach House Players at 8:30 p. m. on Thursday, May 21, at the George Washington School. Proceeds from the play will be used for the players' annual drama scholarship awarded to a member of the graduating class at Kingston High School, who has shown outstanding dramatic skill.

Tickets for Mr. Barry's Etchings may be obtained in advance by writing or telephoning Mrs. Hugh Elwyn, 335 Pearl street, telephone 2059. A limited number of tickets will be available at the box office before curtain time.

Has Comic Twists

The comedy, which will close the player's current season, concerns Judson Barry, a man-of-the-world, who utilizes his famous etchings to battle civic corruption and to further romance. His subsequent entanglements with the underworld, the FBI, and finally Hollywood, provide a wide gamut of comic twists. Houston Richards of Woodstock, is the director.

Local thespians are working diligently to maintain their established reputation for top quality productions. An imaginative new setting is under construction at the renovated coach house, which is the headquarters of the local theatre group.

Serving as chairmen of committees are Carolyn Gross, costumes; Dorothy Buehring, make-up; Maureen Rice, program; Joan Woinoski, publicity; Jean Jones, public relations; John Cordts, properties; Mary Becker, hand props; Gertrude Elwyn, tickets; and finance; Edward Guziak, lighting; Pat Govern, sound effects; Dick Becker, stage manager; Irving Rose, production manager and set; and Liz Dwyer, prompter.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

By EMILY POST

(Author of Etiquette, 'Children Are People,' etc.)

NEVER TOO YOUNG TO LEARN

An interested aunt tells me: "The other day I had lunch with my sister and her young daughter. I was horrified at her table manners and when I asked my sister why she didn't correct her, she said that she was such a poor eater that if she nagged her about her table manners she would never eat, and it was much more important to her that she finish her food. I think her point of view is all wrong and that if she is allowed to continue it will be a disadvantage to her the rest of her life. I would very much appreciate your opinion?"

I agree with you. The habit of bad table manners, once acquired, is almost impossible to correct—and no fault is more revolting.

Leaving a Party

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I were invited to a cocktail and late supper party of approximately twenty guests—none of whom I had ever met, but my husband knew them well. We were the first guests to leave the party. We sought out the host and hostess, said our thanks and departed without saying goodnight to any of the other guests. Was this the correct thing to do or should we have gone around to the other guests and said good-bye?

Answer: You should say goodbye to your hostess only—and to her, as inconspicuously as possible, so as not to start the breaking up of her party.

Glass of Great Beauty

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please explain the present-day status of cut glass? I am an older housekeeper and have many lovely pieces of "pineapple cut" glass. I should like very much to be able to use these pieces but my daughter tells me that they are very old-fashioned and not used at the present time.

Answer: The only reason why they are seldom seen is that few possess them. Those who have them use them "for best" and with pride.

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but if you are planning to give a hostess-alone dinner party, she tells what to serve and how to serve it in the simplest possible manner in her booklet No. 503. To obtain a copy, send 25 cents in coin to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Coach House Players Name Chairmen for Mr. Barry's Etchings

Chairmen of committees have been appointed for Mr. Barry's Etchings, a sprightly comedy, which will be presented by the Coach House Players at 8:30 p. m. on Thursday, May 21, at the George Washington School. Proceeds from the play will be used for the players' annual drama scholarship awarded to a member of the graduating class at Kingston High School, who has shown outstanding dramatic skill.

Tickets for Mr. Barry's Etchings may be obtained in advance by writing or telephoning Mrs. Hugh Elwyn, 335 Pearl street, telephone 2059. A limited number of tickets will be available at the box office before curtain time.

Has Comic Twists

The comedy, which will close the player's current season, concerns Judson Barry, a man-of-the-world, who utilizes his famous etchings to battle civic corruption and to further romance. His subsequent entanglements with the underworld, the FBI, and finally Hollywood, provide a wide gamut of comic twists. Houston Richards of Woodstock, is the director.

Local thespians are working diligently to maintain their established reputation for top quality productions. An imaginative new setting is under construction at the renovated coach house, which is the headquarters of the local theatre group.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

(Author of Etiquette, 'Children Are People,' etc.)

NEVER TOO YOUNG TO LEARN

An interested aunt tells me: "The other day I had lunch with my sister and her young daughter. I was horrified at her table manners and when I asked my sister why she didn't correct her, she said that she was such a poor eater that if she nagged her about her table manners she would never eat, and it was much more important to her that she finish her food. I think her point of view is all wrong and that if she is allowed to continue it will be a disadvantage to her the rest of her life. I would very much appreciate your opinion?"

I agree with you. The habit of bad table manners, once acquired, is almost impossible to correct—and no fault is more revolting.

Leaving a Party

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I were invited to a cocktail and late supper party of approximately twenty guests—none of whom I had ever met, but my husband knew them well. We were the first guests to leave the party. We sought out the host and hostess, said our thanks and departed without saying good-night to any of the other guests. Was this the correct thing to do or should we have gone around to the other guests and said good-bye?

Answer: You should say good-bye to your hostess only—and to her, as inconspicuously as possible, so as not to start the breaking up of her party.

Glass of Great Beauty

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please explain the present-day status of cut glass? I am an older housekeeper and have many lovely pieces of "pineapple cut" glass. I should like very much to be able to use these pieces but my daughter tells me that they are very old-fashioned and not used at the present time.

Answer: The only reason why they are seldom seen is that few possess them. Those who have them use them "for best" and with pride.

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but if you are planning to give a hostess-alone dinner party, she tells what to serve and how to serve it in the simplest possible manner in her booklet No. 503. To obtain a copy, send 25 cents in coin to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

The Mature Parent

Greedy Young Brother May Be Afraid He's Unwanted

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Art is 13, four years older than his brother, Harry. He is in demand by his neighborhood baseball team. But when his gang comes to get him to pitch a game, his mother says, "If you don't take your little brother with you, you can't go."

So while Art plays ball, Harry sits on the grass munching peanuts and drinking bottles of soda pop.

Harry is too fat.

Writes an indignant reader to me, "Your recent column on a younger brother who wanted to go everywhere with the older one did not tell us whether to permit this or not. I wish you writers on children would tell parents exactly what to do."

The function of this column is not to tell anyone "exactly" what to do about anything. It is to suggest ideas that will lead you to your own conclusions about what to do.

What are the ideas that will lead us to conclude what to do about Harry's dependence on Art?

What do we think goes on in Harry as he watches his popular brother make a home run? What do we imagine he feels when Art's friends ignore him? What do we think he does with their spoken or unspoken snubs of him as "Fatty the Nuisance"? What is our motive in exposing him to repeated experience of rebuff by people who don't want him?

Is overweight Harry such a secret problem and worry to us that we want to get rid of him by passing him over to Art?

Maybe. A child who is too greedy for peanuts and soda pop can be very trying around the house. He is apt to be sulky and uncooperative. Since his greed is seldom limited to stomach craving, his demands on food are nothing compared to greed with which he devours our strength and patience.

Have we never been afraid of being unwanted? If we've been aware of it, and have overcome it, we can help Harry overcome his fear, too.

We will say, "Don't worry about this fear. Mother has felt it often. It's something that wants us to worry over it just as it wants to prevent you from doing the very helpful things you need to do to prove it a lie."

But if we've feared being unwanted without knowing what we felt, we may not be able to help Harry. We may have to place him under clinical treatment by people who've had training in knowing what they feel.

The Mature Parent

Greedy Young Brother May Be Afraid He's Unwanted

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Art is 13, four years older than his brother, Harry. He is in demand by his neighborhood baseball team. But when his gang comes to get him to pitch a game, his mother says, "If you don't take your little brother with you, you can't go."

So while Art plays ball, Harry sits on the grass munching peanuts and drinking bottles of soda pop.

Harry is too fat.

Writes an indignant reader to me, "Your recent column on a younger brother who wanted to go everywhere with the older one did not tell us whether to permit this or not. I wish you writers on children would tell parents exactly what to do."

The function of this column is not to tell anyone "exactly" what to do about anything. It is to suggest ideas that will lead you to your own conclusions about what to do.

What are the ideas that will lead us to conclude what to do about Harry's dependence on Art?

What do we think goes on in Harry as he watches his popular brother make a home run? What do we imagine he feels when Art's friends ignore him? What do we think he does with their spoken or unspoken snubs of him as "Fatty the Nuisance"? What is our motive in exposing him to repeated experience of rebuff by people who don't want him?

Is overweight Harry such a secret problem and worry to us that we want to get rid of him by passing him over to Art?

Maybe. A child who is too greedy for peanuts and soda pop can be very trying around the house. He is apt to be sulky and uncooperative. Since his greed is seldom limited to stomach craving, his demands on food are nothing compared to greed with which he devours our strength and patience.

The question is never "what to do" about Harry but how to feel with him.

Have we never been afraid of being unwanted? If we've been aware of it, and have overcome it, we can help Harry overcome his fear, too.

We will say, "Don't worry about this fear. Mother has felt it often. It's something that wants us to worry over it just as it wants to prevent you from doing the very helpful things you need to do to prove it a lie."

But if we've feared being unwanted without knowing what we felt, we may not be able to help Harry. We may have to place him under clinical treatment by people who've had training in knowing what they feel.

Sermon-in-Song Is Scheduled on Sunday At West Camp Church

Hobart Mitchell will present his Spring Festival sermon-in-song in place of the traditional sermon Sunday, May 17, at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, West Camp, at 11 a. m.

Mr. Mitchell develops his text and his objective by a careful selection of the best in well-known sacred music, oratorio arias and spirituals. They are well integrated into a unit of teaching. He makes the transition from the singing voice to the speaking voice so beautifully that even this change is no interruption in the thought of the sheer beauty of the music.

This idea of sermon integration of singing and speaking is highly unusual. Even as the spoken text appeals to the mind the songs stir the emotions, and the combination gives the sermon its deep inspirational quality. The sermon itself has a simple, yet effective message of a thoroughly serious character.

Mr. Mitchell, in faith a Quaker, has developed Sermon and Song as a means of expressing his religious convictions through his talents of singing and writing. He is a former professor of English at New York University and a graduate of the Grace Episcopal Choir School, New York, and the Juilliard School of Music. He has spent two years on a vagabond journey around the world with a knapsack and his music as his only baggage. He has sung concerts in Mexico, at an artists' soiree in Harbin, Manchuria, at the Grand Hotel de Pekin in Peiping, China, Indo China, in Singapore and Penang as well, as in Europe.

Praise Is High

Here are some newspaper clippings on his program. "I have heard nothing but praise for Hobard Mitchell's Sermon in Song. I hope it will be possible for him to return to MacMurray College next year."—by the president, C. P. Mc Clelland, Jacksonville, Ill. "Sermon-in-Song was received here with enthusiasm" — Wiley Critz, director of Religious Life, U. of Mississippi. The Rev. Mr. Schumann, the host pastor, claims Mr. Mitchell is equal to the very best male vocalists in the most outstanding choirs of the Protestant churches of New York. "The fact that we're having him back for the third time in 15 months expresses our zeal for his contribution to our lives."

Mrs. William Rylance of Kingston, also a Juilliard graduate and an accomplished musician, serves as Mr. Mitchell's accompanist.

Wearing Apparel To Girl Students

Worcester, Mass., May 14 (AP)—An armload of slips, panties and skirts was returned today to several girl students at Becker Junior College, from whose dormitory they were stolen in a raid last night.

The wearing apparel was recovered earlier today by Col. James L. Conrad, president of Nichols Junior College, a school for male students in Dudley, 25 miles away.

They are James P. Irish, 20, of 196 Madison Rd., Scarsdale, N. Y.; George Hull, 21, of 3 Sherbrook Rd., Scarsdale, N. Y., and James S. Kelly, 19, of 225 Iowa Rd., Great Neck, N. Y.

Police identified George Hull as the son of Warren Hull, master of ceremonies on the radio and television program "Strike it Rich."

Col. Conrad said the girls' clothing was recovered from the automobiles of returning students. He added that disciplinary action will be taken against them.

Old Dutch Church Sets Third Recital

The third in the series of four monthly recitals presented by the combined ministries of music of the St. James Methodist and Old Dutch Reformed Churches will be held this Sunday evening, May 17, at 8 p. m. in the Old Dutch Church, Main and Wall streets.

Gloria Massa, minister of music at St. James Church, will be the organist, and will play works by Marcello, Bach, Vierne, and Reger. Among the selections will be the great Saint Anne Fugue by Bach, a work based on the chorale melody of O God, Our Help in Ages Past.

As vocal soloists representing the St. James Church will appear Heather Harrison, C. Frederick Seeger, and Ralph Harrison. Miss Harrison is a student of Leonard Stine, has sung solo work at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, and appeared as soloist at the first recital of this series in March.

Representing the Old Dutch Church will be Ray Myers, tenor, who also studied with Leonard Stine, and received a bachelor's degree in music from Ithaca College where he was a pupil of Dr. Bert Rogers Lyon. He has appeared as soloist many times here in Kingston, and sang the tenor solo work in Stainer's The Crucifixion with the Old Dutch Church choir on Good Friday of this year. At the recital Sunday evening, he will sing several solos as well as a duet with Donald Romme, baritone and minister of music at the Old Dutch Church.

As a fitting conclusion to the program Miss Massa and Mr. Romme will perform a piano-organ work, the majestic and contempory Festival Prelude, an arrangement of the chorale, Ye Watchers and Ye Holy Ones," by Goldsworthy.

Wearing Apparel To Girl Students

Worcester, Mass., May 14 (AP)—An armload of slips, panties and skirts was returned today to several girl students at Becker Junior College, from whose dormitory they were stolen in a raid last night.

The wearing apparel was recovered earlier today by Col. James L. Conrad, president of Nichols Junior College, a school for male students in Dudley, 25 miles away.

They are James P. Irish, 20, of 196 Madison Rd., Scarsdale, N. Y.; George Hull, 21, of 3 Sherbrook Rd., Scarsdale, N. Y., and James S. Kelly, 19, of 225 Iowa Rd., Great Neck, N. Y.

Police identified George Hull as the son of Warren Hull, master of ceremonies on the radio and television program "Strike it Rich."

Col. Conrad said the girls' clothing was recovered from the automobiles of returning students. He added that disciplinary action will be taken against them.

Washington, May 14 (AP)—Rep. Clardy (R.-Mich.) asked Congress today to bar payment of a pension to former career diplomat John Carter Vincent. Try Illinois Cook's Fruit Crisp

RHUBARB-STRAWBERRY CRISP combines fresh fruit and nutrition-rich rolled oats with or without whipped cream topping.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

In Lincolnwood, Ill., Mrs. George Thorp is noted for her family-type desserts. Rhubarb-strawberry crisp is a favorite of her two boys.

Mrs. Thorp, formerly a hospital dietician, says the use of rolled oats in fruit desserts adds low-cost protein, iron and B vitamins, turning delicious sweet dishes into good sources of nutrition.

Rhubarb-Strawberry Crisp
(Makes 6 servings)

Filling—Two cups fresh rhubarb, cut in 1-inch pieces, 2 cups fresh strawberries, 2 tablespoons enriched flour, ¼ cup sugar.

Topping—One cup rolled oats (quick or old-fashioned, uncooked), ½ cup brown sugar, ¼ cup sifted enriched flour, 1/3 cup melted butter or margarine.

For the filling—Place fruit in greased deep-dish pie plate. Mix together flour and sugar and sprinkle over fruit.

For the topping—Combine dry ingredients; add melted butter, mixing until crumbly. Sprinkle crumbs over fruit. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 40 minutes. Serve hot or cold, plain or with whipped cream.

Easy Crust Fruit Pie

One-half cup sifted enriched flour, 1½ cups rolled oats (quick or old-fashioned, uncooked), 2/3 cup brown sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ cup melted butter, margarine or other fat, 2½ cups sweetened fruit (sliced peaches, apples or apricots, fresh or cooked).

Combine dry ingredients; add melted butter or other fat, mixing thoroughly. Pack all but 1 cup of this mixture firmly in the bottom and on sides of a pie plate. Arrange sliced fruit on top; cover with remaining crumb mixture. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 30 minutes or until brown. Serve warm or cold, plain or with cream.

Jones Dairy Meets Wiltwyck Motors in City League Opener

Pennant Rivals Scheduled May 19 At Athletic Field

Five Teams Ready For Long Grind

The City Baseball League will lead with its two trumps—Jones Dairy and Wiltwyck Motors—in its twilight season inaugural on Tuesday, May 19, at the Athletic Field.

The five-team circuit will play a 47-game schedule that winds up on Sept. 9, according to the official schedule released by Secretary John Misasi.

Secondary opener on Wednesday, May 20, pairs Colonial Merchants and Doblers. The league's newest franchise, the Kingston Indians, makes its debut against Jones Dairy the next night.

The lengthy schedule embraces five rounds of play and terminates with a championship playoff series, if one is needed.

Few Roster Changes

The 1953 Jones roster has one significant addition—Clark Mains, former Kingston High School star and property of the New York Giants. The Wiltwyck Motor array has not yet been submitted but is expected to feature virtually the same group of Highland and Poughkeepsie tossers who captured last year's pennant.

Colonial Merchants will have southpaw George Telepas, ace of the KHS squad, who should be a sure winner in the twilight circuit. Chuck Engle, the Maroon's No. 4 hitter, is also slated to wear a Merchant uniform.

JONES DAIRY—John Schatzel, manager; Thomas Maines, Charlie Neff, Thomas Carlino, John Berardi, Roland Mauro, Nippy Jones, Sal Misasi, Tom Fisher, Joe Modica, Bruce Bechtold, Clark Maines, Joe Pecora, Robert Gorsline, Bob Shelightner, Joe Benjamin, Robert Graves.

DOBLER BEER—George Magley, manager; Bill Glaser, Lee Barringer, George Barnes, Link Crosby, Bill Olen, Fred Schryver, Bill Tierney, Bill Slover, Don Lyons, Gerry Bechtold, Joe Foote, Joe Shattan, Allan Vogt.

KINGSTON INDIANS—Charles Havlin, manager; Thomas Hricisak, Henry Diamond, Henry Albright, John Letus, Frank Leirey, Bob Gordon, Bob Emerson, Bob Peterson, Fred Orr, John Turck, Frank Jankowski, Steve Cea, Art Gill, John Glennon.

The schedule for May and June:

May

May 19—Jones vs. Wiltwycks
May 20—Merchants vs. Doblers
May 21—Jones vs. Indians
May 26—Wiltwycks vs. Merchants

Ella Raines Guest At Cornwall Show

Several distinguished guests will attend the New York Military Academy horse show on Saturday and Sunday, May 16-17.

The honored guest will be Col. H. A. C. deRubio, USA (rtd.), the founder of the famous Troop D unit, the NYMA cavalry organization which has distinguished itself down through the years.

Miss Ella Raines, the Hollywood actress who is a resident of Cornwall-on-Hudson, is expected to attend. Miss Raines, who is soon to return to Hollywood to make a new film, will present one of the awards in the hunter class. She is the wife of jet pilot, Lt. Col. Robin Olds, who is stationed at Stewart Air Force base.

Col. deRubio, who is one of the sons of NYMA, graduated from the school in 1894. He entered upon a military career when war broke out with Spain in 1898. He later served during the Philippine Insurrection and played a large part in the formation of the famous Philippine constabulary. His outstanding service to the nation as a volunteer won him the distinction of being placed on the Officers' Honorary Retired List, an honor reserved only for officers who have served faithfully and well for long periods during national emergencies.

Col. deRubio came back to NYMA as a member of the faculty in 1912.

Old Boston Lineup Now Revitalized

(By The Associated Press)

It's about time the travel agents of the nation paid a special tribute to the Milwaukee Braves. Where could they find a better example of the benefits to be obtained by a change of scenery?

The 1,000 mile westward shift from the beanpots of Boston to the brewing center of Milwaukee has worked wonders for the once-downtrodden ball club that finished a dismal seventh in the National League last year.

Today's standings show the Braves only half a game out of first place. They have seven more games on their present home stand at their new $5,000,000 stadium where they have won seven out of eight and drawn 172,781.

39,010 See Two Games

Yesterday, with the thermometer shivering at 39 degrees, 9,043 watched their Braves smother the New York Giants, 11-1. This brought the total crowd for the two-game Giant series to 39,010, only 1,749 less than saw the New Yorkers play in Boston all last season.

Manager Charlie Grimm has been fortunate to come up with a trio of red hot newcomers in pitchers Bob Buhl and Don Liddle and outfielder Bill Bruton. But his old Boston lineup has become revitalized as well.

The Braves had only one pitcher—Ernie Johnson—who finished last year with an average as high as .500. Yet nine of their 13 victories this season have been registered by last year's mound staff.

Burdette Big Surprise

Lou Burdette, yesterday's winner, has shown remarkable improvement. Working as a long distance relief man, Burdette has pitched 17 1/3 innings in three games ,has a 2-0 record, and a 2.12 earned run average.

He came in at the start of the third inning against the Giants after starter Johnny Antonelli had injured a finger on his pitching hand and stopped New York on four hits. In his previous appearance he relieved Antonelli with two out in the first inning at Brooklyn and went the rest of the way to beat the Dodgers handily, something the Braves did only three times last year.

Milwaukee moved into second place over Brooklyn, which was frozen out of its scheduled game at Chicago. Rain and wet grounds caused the postponement of the other National League contests—Pittsburgh at Cincinnati and Philadelphia at St. Louis.

In the American League the New York Yankees won their third straight over Cleveland, 9-4, dropping the Indians into third place. Boston blanked Chicago, 3-0, and Philadelphia broke its seven game losing streak at the expense of the St. Louis Browns, 2-1. A night game at Washington between the Senators and the Detroit Tigers was rained out.

Lopat's 36th Over Tribe

Shut out on one hit Tuesday night, Cleveland came up with four runs in the first four innings against the Yankees yesterday. Then its pitching folded and by the end of seven the Yanks were ahead to stay. Mike Garcia was the loser as Eddie Lopat beat the Indians for the 36th time in his career. He has lost to them in nine games.

Marv Grissom handcuffed the White Sox on four hits. Despite the loss Chicago moved over Cleveland into second place. The Sox have played five more games and won three more than the Indians.

An eighth inning homer by Eddie Joost off Satchel Paige provided the victory margin for the Athletics over the Browns.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Pitching—Marv Grissom, Boston Red Sox, limited the Chicago White Sox to four hits in winning, 3-0.

Batting—Eddie Joost, Philadelphia Athletics, homered in the eighth inning to give the A's a 2-1 victory over St. Louis.

Yonkers, N. Y., May 14 (AP)—Projectile, an 11-year-old trotter who races well in the mud, closed fast in the last eighth of a mile to win the Buchanan Trot at Yonkers Raceway's Grand Circuit session last night. Philip Dussault took the veteran trotter to the front just past the half-mile pole and then opened up. He won by a length over Katie Key with Blitzen Up third. The time was 2:13.1 for the mile, raced over a track turned into a sea of mud by a driving rain which hit the course just before the first race. Projectile returned $10.40 for $2.

Jones Dairy Meets Wiltwyck Motors in City League Opener

Five Teams Ready For Long Grind

The City Baseball League will lead with its two trumps—Jones Dairy and Wiltwyck Motors—in its twilight season inaugural on Tuesday, May 19, at the Athletic Field.

The five-team circuit will play a 47-game schedule that winds up on Sept. 9, according to the official schedule released by Secretary John Misasi.

Secondary opener on Wednesday, May 20, pairs Colonial Merchants and Doblers. The league's newest franchise, the Kingston Indians, makes its debut against Jones Dairy the next night.

The lengthy schedule embraces five rounds of play and terminates with a championship playoff series, if one is needed.

Few Roster Changes

The 1953 Jones roster has one significant addition—Clark Mains, former Kingston High School star and property of the New York Giants. The Wiltwyck Motor array has not yet been submitted but is expected to feature virtually the same group of Highland and Poughkeepsie tossers who captured last year's pennant.

Colonial Merchants will have southpaw George Telepas, ace of the KHS squad, who should be a sure winner in the twilight circuit. Chuck Engle, the Maroon's No. 4 hitter, is also slated to wear a Merchant uniform.

Dobler's Beer is the 1952 Boulevard Gulf aggregation with virtually no changes. The Indians are a group of youngsters under the leadership of Charles Havlin.

JONES DAIRY—John Schatzel, manager; Thomas Maines, Charlie Neff, Thomas Carlino, John Berardi, Roland Mauro, Nippy Jones, Sal Misasi, Tom Fisher, Joe Modica, Bruce Bechtold, Clark Maines, Joe Pecora, Robert Gorsline, Bob Shelightner, Joe Benjamin, Robert Graves.

DOBLER BEER—George Magley, manager; Bill Glaser, Lee Barringer, George Barnes, Link Crosby, Bill Olen, Fred Schryver, Bill Tierney, Bill Slover, Don Lyons, Gerry Bechtold, Joe Foote, Joe Shattan, Allan Vogt.

KINGSTON INDIANS—Charles Havlin, manager; Thomas Hricisak, Henry Diamond, Henry Albright, John Letus, Frank Leirey, Bob Gordon, Bob Emerson, Bob Peterson, Fred Orr, John Turck, Frank Jankowski, Steve Cea, Art Gill, John Glennon.

The schedule for May and June:

Ella Raines Guest At Cornwall Show

Several distinguished guests will attend the New York Military Academy horse show on Saturday and Sunday, May 16-17.

The honored guest will be Col. H. A. C. deRubio, USA (rtd.), the founder of the famous Troop D unit, the NYMA cavalry organization which has distinguished itself down through the years.

Miss Ella Raines, the Hollywood actress who is a resident of Cornwall-on-Hudson, is expected to attend. Miss Raines, who is soon to return to Hollywood to make a new film, will present one of the awards in the hunter class. She is the wife of jet pilot, Lt. Col. Robin Olds, who is stationed at Stewart Air Force base.

Col. deRubio, who is one of the sons of NYMA, graduated from the school in 1894. He entered upon a military career when war broke out with Spain in 1898. He later served during the Philippine Insurrection and played a large part in the formation of the famous Philippine constabulary. His outstanding service to the nation as a volunteer won him the distinction of being placed on the Officers' Honorary Retired List, an honor reserved only for officers who have served faithfully and well for long periods during national emergencies.

Col. deRubio came back to NYMA as a member of the faculty in 1912.

Old Boston Lineup Now Revitalized

(By The Associated Press)

It's about time the travel agents of the nation paid a special tribute to the Milwaukee Braves. Where could they find a better example of the benefits to be obtained by a change of scenery?

The 1,000 mile westward shift from the beanpots of Boston to the brewing center of Milwaukee has worked wonders for the once-downtrodden ball club that finished a dismal seventh in the National League last year.

Today's standings show the Braves only half a game out of first place. They have seven more games on their present home stand at their new $5,000,000 stadium where they have won seven out of eight and drawn 172,781.

39,010 See Two Games

Yesterday, with the thermometer shivering at 39 degrees, 9,043 watched their Braves smother the New York Giants, 11-1. This brought the total crowd for the two-game Giant series to 39,010, only 1,749 less than saw the New Yorkers play in Boston all last season.

Manager Charlie Grimm has been fortunate to come up with a trio of red hot newcomers in pitchers Bob Buhl and Don Liddle and outfielder Bill Bruton. But his old Boston lineup has become revitalized as well.

The Braves had only one pitcher—Ernie Johnson—who finished last year with an average as high as .500. Yet nine of their 13 victories this season have been registered by last year's mound staff.

Burdette Big Surprise

Lou Burdette, yesterday's winner, has shown remarkable improvement. Working as a long distance relief man, Burdette has pitched 17 1/3 innings in three games ,has a 2-0 record, and a 2.12 earned run average.

He came in at the start of the third inning against the Giants after starter Johnny Antonelli had injured a finger on his pitching hand and stopped New York on four hits. In his previous appearance he relieved Antonelli with two out in the first inning at Brooklyn and went the rest of the way to beat the Dodgers handily, something the Braves did only three times last year.

Milwaukee moved into second place over Brooklyn, which was frozen out of its scheduled game at Chicago. Rain and wet grounds caused the postponement of the other National League contests—Pittsburgh at Cincinnati and Philadelphia at St. Louis.

In the American League the New York Yankees won their third straight over Cleveland, 9-4, dropping the Indians into third place. Boston blanked Chicago, 3-0, and Philadelphia broke its seven game losing streak at the expense of the St. Louis Browns, 2-1. A night game at Washington between the Senators and the Detroit Tigers was rained out.

Lopat's 36th Over Tribe

Shut out on one hit Tuesday night, Cleveland came up with four runs in the first four innings against the Yankees yesterday. Then its pitching folded and by the end of seven the Yanks were ahead to stay. Mike Garcia was the loser as Eddie Lopat beat the Indians for the 36th time in his career. He has lost to them in nine games.

Marv Grissom handcuffed the White Sox on four hits. Despite the loss Chicago moved over Cleveland into second place. The Sox have played five more games and won three more than the Indians.

An eighth inning homer by Eddie Joost off Satchel Paige provided the victory margin for the Athletics over the Browns.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Pitching—Marv Grissom, Boston Red Sox, limited the Chicago White Sox to four hits in winning, 3-0.

City Softball Openers Set May 18 With 8 Teams

Ninth Squad Likely From Port Ewen

City Softball League launches its 1953 season with four games on Monday, May 18.

The first day's schedule released today by Secretary Andrew Murphy III lists an eight-team circuit, but reports persist that a ninth franchise will be entered.

Secretary Murphy said Port Ewen franchise officials had delayed a decision on entering as the ninth team. However, a Port Ewen softball spokesman announced Tuesday that the village would definitely join the league.

The defending champions, Hilltop Rest, will open against the runnerup Subway Grill at St. Mary's Field.

Games will be played on Monday and Wednesday and will be seven-inning affairs starting at 6:30 p. m.

The league would like to hear from persons interested in umpiring. Volunteers are asked to call Andy Murphy III at the Recreation Center (1682) and Bill Mahoney at the Hilltop (3958) after 7 p. m.

The eight teams in this year's setup are Hilltop Rest, Subway Grill, Alpine Climbers, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Lincoln Park Inn, Beichert's Studebakers, Sickler's Delivery and Cherny's.

The first night's schedule:

Monday, May 18
(6:30 p. m.)

Sickler's Delivery vs. Cherny's at lower Hasbrouck.

Lincoln Park Inn vs. Beichert's at Block Park.

Hilltop Rest vs. Subway Grill at St. Mary's.

Alpine Climbers vs. V.F.W. at Athletic Field.

Williams Pounds 646 High Series

Veteran Ken Williams led a field of five 600 blasts in the Central Rec Major League Wednesday night with a gaudy 646 effort.

Chris Robinson was runnerup with 246-624; Fred Ferraro 234-623; Cliff Davis 226-213-618 and Larry Weishaupt 221-201-614.

Also of note were Frank Grimaldi with 228-589; George Robinson 201-202-584; Frank "Boots" Leskie 200-205-583; Steve Fassbender 210-581.

The Pontiacs topped the team scoring last night with a 1009 single and 2922 series.

Pontiacs 3, Hymes Shoe 0; Jack's Rest 2, Mickey's 1; Old Capitals 2, Quality Maple 1; Welch's Grocery 2, Alpine 1.

Phillies Also Top Hitters

New York, May 14 (AP) — No wonder the Philadelphia Phillies are setting the pace in the National League. They're the best hitting team in baseball.

The Phillies, a half game in front of the runner-up Milwaukee Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers, are hitting a collective .280. That's three points better than the Dodgers. The Braves are tied for fourth with St. Louis at .255, Associated Press statistics revealed today.

In the American League, the Washington Senators, who have won their last five in a row, have the highest team batting average, .266. Records include yesterday's games.

The New York Giants are third in the National League with a .265 mark. Cincinnati is sixth at .246 followed by Pittsburgh, .244 and Chicago, .238.

The Detroit Tigers, Cleveland Indians and Boston Red Sox are in a triple tie behind Washington in the junior circuit, each with .265. Next come the New York Yankees, .263; Chicago White Sox, .254; St. Louis Browns, .244 and the Philadelphia Athletics, .232.

Mannello Shoots 579 in CYO Loop

Mannello fired a string of 235-172-172 for 579 while DeCicco hammered 205-139-234 for 578.

Wilhelm's ERA Streak Stopped

Milwaukee, May 14 (AP)—Hoyt Wilhelm saw his perfect earned run average go up in smoke yesterday, as the Milwaukee Braves exploded for five runs off the New York Giants' relief ace.

Wilhelm had sailed through 27 innings without yielding an earned run before the Braves soiled his record.

Odds for Rocky but Even Experts Can Be Fooled

Jersey Joe Still Dangerous at 39

Chicago, May 14 (AP)—Take your pick. Rugged Rocky Marciano, an easy to hit slugger with a one-punch knockout wallop. Or cagey old Jersey Joe Walcott, still spry at 39 and dangerous with either hand.

The odds say 3 to 1 in favor of the Rock from Brockton, Mass., but be careful. They always run heavy against the old pappy guy with the six kids back home in Camden, N. J. He could fool the experts tomorrow night at Chicago Stadium like he did when he flattened Ezzard Charles with one punch in Pittsburgh in '51.

Walcott can knock down Marciano. He did it last September in the first round with a sweeping hook that dumped Rocky in the resin for the first time in 43 fights. But the Rock got up, don't forget that.

Marciano can knock out Walcott. He did it before—in the 13th round at Philadelphia with as pretty a right hand as you ever saw. The picture still lingers of Jersey Joe slowly sinking down, as though trying to stand on his head. Slowly. Slowly. Finally settling for the full count and more too.

Both Have Been Idle

What goes since September?

The old boy now admits to 39. Hasn't had a fight since. From what he shows in the gym, he looks as nimble as ever. But, in the gym, nobody is busting him in the stomach with Marciano's blockbusters. The workouts are four or five rounds—not 15.

Rocky, too, hasn't fought. He has seen more cities, towns and banquet halls than he knew existed. A dinner here, a referee job there. A personal appearance. A TV show. Not until January did he get back in the gym. He seems happy there, belting the sparring partners, running through the woods in the morning air or walking through the meadows.

Is Walcott as good as ever? Is Rocky? It is hard to see how Walcott could improve. After all, he's been boxing since 1930. With Marciano there always has been plenty of room for improvement—still is.

The gym work tells you practically nothing. Marciano still flounders when he misses. But his pressure attack and thunderous body belts make a fellow gasp for breath after a round or two.

May Shoot the Works

From Walcott's ballyhoo artist, Harry Mendel, comes word that old Jersey Joe is going to gamble . . . shoot the works for a knockout. He would be silly to do that—unless he knows he can not go 15 against an ever-onward pressing opponent.

If Joe still has the legs to do it, it would be normal to expect a return to that old Jersey shuffle that baffled Joe Louis the first time around.

Marciano has no choice. With his short, chunky arms (67 inches in reach to Walcott's 74) he can't hope to outbox the oldtimer. He is a puncher, period.

Weaving out of a crouch, he presents a more difficult target than when he first came along. Many of the punches hit him on the arms, elbows and gloves.

The notion here is that Marciano, applying constant counter-punching pressure, will wear down Walcott again. Perhaps he will be knocked down again. But he gets up. Along about the ninth round, I think Walcott will retire to the pipe and slipper set to start collecting that $500 a week his manager has promised.

Boros Is Forgotten Man as $17,500 Round Robin Opens

Westbury, May 14 (AP)—The forgotten man of the $17,500 Round Robin golf tournament, opening today at the Meadow Brook Club, is U. S. Open champion Julius Boros.

Boros hasn't won an important purse since he captured the top money prize in the All-America championship at Chicago last summer. In the pro-amateur preliminary here yesterday he shot an erratic 37-37—74, four over par, with almost nobody in the gallery.

Sam Snead is defending champion in the four day, 90-hole grind over the 6,648 yard, par 70 course. The long-driving veteran from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., is considered a good bet to repeat and become the first three-time victor.

Danbury Blasts New Paltz, 13-3

New Paltz State Teachers are finding the path to baseball victory a rocky one these days.

They came apart at the seams in the last two innings Monday to get overwhelmned 13-3 by Danbury Teachers of Connecticut.

It was a respectable 5-3 game at the end of seven. Then Danbury crashed through with three in the eighth and five in the ninth. The final tally, Danbury 13, New Paltz 3.

Three of the Danbury sluggers collected four hits each in a 19-hit barrage off three NP hurlers—King, Ebert and Elman — and nine miscues greased the skids for the county tossers.

New Paltz collected five hits off Lizna, who fanned 9, including a single and double by Dick King.

Writers Pick Rocky by KO

Chicago, May 14 (AP)—Forty-one of 43 sports writers polled today picked champion Rocky Marciano to retain his heavyweight title by a knockout of Jersey Joe Walcott at the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night.

The only Walcott backers were John Webster of the Philadelphia Inquirer and Ed Sainsbury of the Associated Press.

Those on Marciano's side — Jack Dempsey, Joe Louis, Sammy Mandell, Dan Bucceroni, Willie Pep and Ezzard Charles.

Those for Walcott—Jim Braddock, Chuck Davey, Kid Gavilan, Bill Tate, Ray Robinson, Jimmy Carter, Gil Turner, Joe Maxim, Archie Moore, Bob Satterfield and Rocky Castellani.

Undecided are Johnny Bratton and Roland LaStarza.

Meanwhile, loop odds-makers said Marciano remains a heavy favorite with odds fluctuating from 2½-1 to 3½-1. If you want Marciano you may lay 3½ to 1. If you bet on Walcott, you get 2½ to 1.

City Softball Openers Set May 18 With 8 Teams

Ninth Squad Likely From Port Ewen

City Softball League launches its 1953 season with four games on Monday, May 18.

The first day's schedule released today by Secretary Andrew Murphy III lists an eight-team circuit, but reports persist that a ninth franchise will be entered.

Secretary Murphy said Port Ewen franchise officials had delayed a decision on entering as the ninth team. However, a Port Ewen softball spokesman announced Tuesday that the village would definitely join the league.

The defending champions, Hilltop Rest, will open against the runnerup Subway Grill at St. Mary's Field.

Games will be played on Monday and Wednesday and will be seven-inning affairs starting at 6:30 p. m.

The eight teams in this year's setup are Hilltop Rest, Subway Grill, Alpine Climbers, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Lincoln Park Inn, Beichert's Studebakers, Sickler's Delivery and Cherny's.

The first night's schedule:

Monday, May 18
(6:30 p. m.)

Sickler's Delivery vs. Cherny's at lower Hasbrouck.

Lincoln Park Inn vs. Beichert's at Block Park.

Hilltop Rest vs. Subway Grill at St. Mary's.

Williams Pounds 646 High Series

Veteran Ken Williams led a field of five 600 blasts in the Central Rec Major League Wednesday night with a gaudy 646 effort.

Williams exploded for a string of 233-237-176.

Chris Robinson was runnerup with 246-624; Fred Ferraro 234-623; Cliff Davis 226-213-618 and Larry Weishaupt 221-201-614.

Also of note were Frank Grimaldi with 228-589; George Robinson 201-202-584; Frank "Boots" Leskie 200-205-583; Steve Fassbender 210-581.

Jack's Rest continued its four-game lead for Old Capital Motors by winning two from Mickey's. The Old Caps also took the odd game from Quality Maple.

The Pontiacs topped the team scoring last night with a 1009 single and 2922 series.

Team results:

Pontiacs 3, Hymes Shoe 0; Jack's Rest 2, Mickey's 1; Old Capitals 2, Quality Maple 1; Welch's Grocery 2, Alpine 1.

Outdistances Field By 9-Point Margin

Rose Schatzel, the perennial Queen of Bowling in Kingston, compiled a brilliant 183.16 average for 93 games to pace the Woman's Major at the Bowlodrome.

The Queen had a 9-point margin over runnerup Mrs. Emerson Rawding, who finished with 174.4.

Eight keglerettes rolled at a 160 or better clip and 20 were in the 150 bracket.

Mrs. Elizabeth Schoonmaker Egan took third place with 171.19. Charlotte Lapine averaged 168.14 for 105 games and Beverly Port posted 167.10 for 81 sets.

Other "160" shooters were Ada Markle, 166.24; Marge Jansen, 165.38 and Elizabeth Bruck, 161.17.

Mrs. Egan, who this season rolled the first "700" triple in local women's history, also took both individual marks in the Major with 244 and 624.

Mannello Shoots 579 in CYO Loop

Joe Mannello nosed out Pat DeCicco by one pin for top honors in the CYO Holy Name wheel at the Bowlodrome Wednesday night.

Mannello fired a string of 235-172-172 for 579 while DeCicco hammered 205-139-234 for 578.

Wilhelm's ERA Streak Stopped

Milwaukee, May 14 (AP)—Hoyt Wilhelm saw his perfect earned run average go up in smoke yesterday, as the Milwaukee Braves exploded for five runs off the New York Giants' relief ace.

Wilhelm had sailed through 27 innings without yielding an earned run before the Braves soiled his record.

Odds for Rocky but Even Experts Can Be Fooled

Jersey Joe Still Dangerous at 39

Chicago, May 14 (AP)—Take your pick. Rugged Rocky Marciano, an easy to hit slugger with a one-punch knockout wallop. Or cagey old Jersey Joe Walcott, still spry at 39 and dangerous with either hand.

The odds say 3 to 1 in favor of the Rock from Brockton, Mass., but be careful. They always run heavy against the old pappy guy with the six kids back home in Camden, N. J. He could fool the experts tomorrow night at Chicago Stadium like he did when he flattened Ezzard Charles with one punch in Pittsburgh in '51.

Walcott can knock down Marciano. He did it last September in the first round with a sweeping hook that dumped Rocky in the resin for the first time in 43 fights. But the Rock got up, don't forget that.

Marciano can knock out Walcott. He did it before—in the 13th round at Philadelphia with as pretty a right hand as you ever saw. The picture still lingers of Jersey Joe slowly sinking down, as though trying to stand on his head. Slowly. Slowly. Finally settling for the full count and more too.

Both Have Been Idle

What goes since September?

The old boy now admits to 39. Hasn't had a fight since. From what he shows in the gym, he looks as nimble as ever. But, in the gym, nobody is busting him in the stomach with Marciano's blockbusters. The workouts are four or five rounds—not 15.

Rocky, too, hasn't fought. He has seen more cities, towns and banquet halls than he knew existed. A dinner here, a referee job there. A personal appearance. A TV show. Not until January did he get back in the gym. He seems happy there, belting the sparring partners, running through the woods in the morning air or walking through the meadows.

Is Walcott as good as ever? Is Rocky? It is hard to see how Walcott could improve. After all, he's been boxing since 1930. With Marciano there always has been plenty of room for improvement—still is.

The gym work tells you practically nothing. Marciano still flounders when he misses. But his pressure attack and thunderous body belts make a fellow gasp for breath after a round or two.

May Shoot the Works

From Walcott's ballyhoo artist, Harry Mendel, comes word that old Jersey Joe is going to gamble . . . shoot the works for a knockout. He would be silly to do that—unless he knows he can not go 15 against an ever-onward pressing opponent.

If Joe still has the legs to do it, it would be normal to expect a return to that old Jersey shuffle that baffled Joe Louis the first time around.

Marciano has no choice. With his short, chunky arms (67 inches in reach to Walcott's 74) he can't hope to outbox the oldtimer. He is a puncher, period.

Weaving out of a crouch, he presents a more difficult target than when he first came along. Many of the punches hit him on the arms, elbows and gloves.

The notion here is that Marciano, applying constant counter-punching pressure, will wear down Walcott again. Perhaps he will be knocked down again. But he gets up. Along about the ninth round, I think Walcott will retire to the pipe and slipper set to start collecting that $500 a week his manager has promised.

Boros Is Forgotten Man as $17,500 Round Robin Opens

Westbury, May 14 (AP)—The forgotten man of the $17,500 Round Robin golf tournament, opening today at the Meadow Brook Club, is U. S. Open champion Julius Boros.

The quiet-spoken son of Hungarian immigrants who dethroned Ben Hogan last year at Dallas is in the throes of a gigantic slump. His irons are off and his putting is miserable.

Boros hasn't won an important purse since he captured the top money prize in the All-America championship at Chicago last summer. In the pro-amateur preliminary here yesterday he shot an erratic 37-37—74, four over par, with almost nobody in the gallery.

Sam Snead is defending champion in the four day, 90-hole grind over the 6,648 yard, par 70 course. The long-driving veteran from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., is considered a good bet to repeat and become the first three-time victor.

Danbury Blasts New Paltz, 13-3

New Paltz State Teachers are finding the path to baseball victory a rocky one these days.

They came apart at the seams in the last two innings Monday to get overwhelmned 13-3 by Danbury Teachers of Connecticut.

It was a respectable 5-3 game at the end of seven. Then Danbury crashed through with three in the eighth and five in the ninth. The final tally, Danbury 13, New Paltz 3.

Three of the Danbury sluggers collected four hits each in a 19-hit barrage off three NP hurlers—King, Ebert and Elman — and nine miscues greased the skids for the county tossers.

New Paltz collected five hits off Lizna, who fanned 9, including a single and double by Dick King.

Writers Pick Rocky by KO

Chicago, May 14 (AP)—Forty-one of 43 sports writers polled today picked champion Rocky Marciano to retain his heavyweight title by a knockout of Jersey Joe Walcott at the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night.

The only Walcott backers were John Webster of the Philadelphia Inquirer and Ed Sainsbury of the Associated Press.

All of the Marciano men predicted a knockout victory, 33 expecting it no later than the 10th round.

Those on Marciano's side — Jack Dempsey, Joe Louis, Sammy Mandell, Dan Bucceroni, Willie Pep and Ezzard Charles.

Those for Walcott—Jim Braddock, Chuck Davey, Kid Gavilan, Bill Tate, Ray Robinson, Jimmy Carter, Gil Turner, Joe Maxim, Archie Moore, Bob Satterfield and Rocky Castellani.

Undecided are Johnny Bratton and Roland LaStarza.

Meanwhile, loop odds-makers said Marciano remains a heavy favorite with odds fluctuating from 2½-1 to 3½-1. If you want Marciano you may lay 3½ to 1. If you bet on Walcott, you get 2½ to 1.

Recommend More For Agriculture

Appropriations Committee Favors $8,942,086 More Than Asked

Washington, May 14 (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today recommended an Agriculture Department budget 1.4 per cent larger than President Eisenhower had asked.

It sent to the House floor for debate next week a bill to appropriate $712,308,328 to finance the department's regular activities for the 1954 fiscal year starting July 1.

This is $37,101,014, or 5 per cent, less than former President Truman asked for in his January budget message. But it is $8,942,086 more than the Eisenhower administration requested in a budget revision submitted by Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

Most of the increase over Benson's requests was earmarked for establishment of 50 small pilot plant watersheds to determine the future course to be followed on upstream watershed protection.

The Agriculture Department now operates 11 major watershed projects. The Truman budget contemplated adding seven more. The committee recommended seven million dollars for flood prevention, providing for continuance of work on the 11 existing projects but nothing for the new ones requested by Truman. An additional five millions was earmarked for the pilot plants.

Authorize Loans

In addition to the new cash for regular activities of the department, the bill would authorize loans of 347½ million dollars by the Rural Electrification Administration and the Farmers Home Administration. This is 17½ millions less than Truman requested, but 42½ millions more than Benson asked. All these loans are repayable.

Of the total loans authorized, 185 million dollars is for rural telephone and electric cooperatives, 35½ millions for farm ownership and housing loans, 120 millions for production and subsistence loans, and seven millions for water facilities loans.

For the agricultural conservation program, the committee authorized 195 million dollars for the 1954 crop year. This money is to be provided in next year's appropriation bill. This amount, the committee said in a report drafted by Rep. H. Carl Andersen (R.-Minn.), is the minimum in view of "the alarming rate at which the soil of this nation is being lost and depleted."

It is 55 million dollars less than was authorized for the 1953 crop year and 55 millions more than Benson has asked for 1954.

To meet commitments on the 1953 crop program, the committee approved $211,982,000, a cut of $40,454,000 from Truman requests. Despite this reduction, the committee said, the department should be able to meet all commitments made to farmers.

The school lunch program was allotted $83,365,000, the same amount that Truman requested and the same that was appropriated for this year.

Modena Man Jailed As Drunken Driver

Arraigned on Wednesday before Justice of the Peace Francis E. Palen, Jr., of Port Ewen, Earl Vincent Coy, 26, of Modena pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated and was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 or spend 10 days in jail. He was committed to jail pending payment of the fine.

Coy was arrested early Wednesday by state police on a public intoxication charge. State police later withdrew that charge and pressed the charge of driving while intoxicated, Cpl. H. E. Rasmussen of the Highland station said today.

On other matters, Eisenhower:

1. Announced he will make a nation-wide radio address next Tuesday evening on the security of the nation as related to the federal budget and taxes. The hour for the speech has not been set.

2. Said he probably will make a nationwide report to the nation by television a week or so later. He said he had in mind a review of what has taken place during his brief administration.

3. Emphasized that his appointment of a new military high command in no way implies any criticism of the men who are being replaced on the joint chiefs of staffs. The President said Secretary of Defense Wilson felt he should have an entirely new team, and that he agreed with Wilson.

Backs Pay Hike

4. Endorsed a proposal in Congress to raise the pay of senators and House members by $10,000 a year. Eisenhower said the time is approaching, with taxes as they are, when it will be difficult to find well qualified men to bid for jobs in Congress. And, he said, the people should have the best possible men in Congress whether they have a nickel or a lot of money.

5. Said he believes there should be maximum local interest in development of such power projects as the one at Hells Canyon in Idaho. This was in a reply to a question as to whether he favored development by the federal government or the Idaho Power Company. Secretary of the Interior McKay announced recently his department had no objection to private construction of the power development. In the Truman Administration, the Interior Department had objected.

Favors Separate Legislation

6. Said he feels that legislation to grant statehood to Hawaii should be handled separately and not combined with the Alaska statehood measure as a Senate Committee voted earlier this week to do. The move to combine the bills was sponsored by Democrats and some congressional Republicans contend it was motivated by politics.

Eisenhower said Hawaii's economy is on a self-supporting basis and that its record during World War 2 proved its right to statehood.

7. Said the individual states have no rightful claim to submerged oil lands beyond their historic boundaries. His statement was in reply to a request for comment on whether he favors a pending bill which would establish federal jurisdiction over submerged oil lands on the continental shelf beyond the state's historic boundaries. Congress has passed and sent to the White House legislation to give the states title within their boundaries.

Supports UNESCO Group

8. Said the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) had started out with a fine announced purpose, and that while some suspicions had been aroused regarding it he has had no report on whether there is any justification for that suspicion. Some Congress members have been critical of UNESCO, contending it has drafted proposed agreements which would infringe on U. S. internal affairs.

9. Said the late Red rejection of United Nations armistice proposals in Korea indicates a sort of fixed attitude pointed up by their speedy rejection of terms set forth by General Mark Clark, the UN commander in the Far East.

10. Said, in reply to a question about his views regarding recognition of Red China, that different nations have different ideas as to what constitutes recognition.

He said that for many years recognition of another nation by this country has been interpreted as tacit approval of that nation's form of government. The United States, the President added, therefore has to review each case differently than other countries might handle it.

It was Eisenhower's first news conference in two weeks. The room in the old State Department building, where he meets with reporters, was almost filled.

Dulles Will Confer With Israeli Premier

Jerusalem, May 14 (AP)—U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles drove here today from Tel Aviv for talks with Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion and other top officials.

The Israeli leaders were expected to press Dulles for support of their efforts to reach a permanent peace with Israel's Arab neighbors, with whom she technically has been at war since 1948. Dulles already has said a Jewish-Arab agreement is essential to any joint defense of the Middle East against communism.

The U. S. secretary, accompanied by Foreign Aid Director Harold Stassen and a group of advisers, flew to Tell Aviv from Cairo yesterday. Dulles conferred for two hours with Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett soon after his arrival and continued the talks during a dinner which Israeli Chief of Staff Mordecai Makleff and two cabinet members also attended.

Tokyo, May 14 (AP)—Maj. Gen. George W. Smythe, former commander of the U. S. Third Division in Korea, today was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal. He leaves tomorrow for duty in the office of the chief of staff in Washington.
